2015 NATIONAL CHAMPIONS

LSU'S QUARTERMILERS DOMINATE NCAA CHAMPIONSHIP

LSU's quatermilers were among the NCAA's leading performers throughout the 2015 collegiate season as senior Vernon Norwood swept NCAA Indoor and NCAA Outdoor titles in the 400-meter dash and the Tigers ended the season as national champions in the 4x400-meter relay at the NCAA Division I Outdoor Track & Field Championships. Norwood became just the 14th sprinter in collegiate history to sweep NCAA 400-meter titles, or 440-yard equivalent, with winning times of 45.31 indoors and 45.10 outdoors at the NCAA Championships. He even became one of the NCAA's 10 fastest 400-meter sprinters in history when he clocked a 44.44 personal best during the 2015 outdoor season. Norwood also anchored the Tigers to the NCAA Outdoor title in the 4x400 relay as he teamed with Quincy Downing, Fitzroy Dunkley and Cyril Grayson to take the title in 3:01.96.

LSU's Memorial Tower (top main photo) was one of the first structures completed on the present campus and sits east of the quadrangle (above, left). It represents the University as a memorial to those who gave their lives during World War I. Although it currently houses the LSU Anglo-American Art Museum, plans are in process to return Memorial Tower to a military museum as originally intended. The University lakes (above, right) on the LSU campus give various recreational options.

Louisiana State University and Agricultural & Mechanical College has, throughout its history, served the people of Louisiana, the region, the nation and the world. LSU is creating a revolution, one of pervasive change and advancement. The focus of the LSU community has been an increased commitment to excellence. Our progress has been dramatic and shows no sign of stopping.

Having witnessed many of yesterday's possibilities become today's tangible realities, the LSU community set forth to capitalize on its success. The goal was to improve our standing as a nationally competitive flagship university. Following intense discussions among the LSU Board of Supervisors, campus administrators, faculty and student leaders, the objectives required to reach this status crystallized, providing the impetus for LSU's National Flagship Agenda.

Why LSU?

Walter Davis
2-time World Champion
6-time NCAA Champion
9-time NCAA All-American

"When anyone thinks of collegiate track and field, they think of LSU. The tradition here in this sport is unbelievable, and that's one of the main reasons I chose to come to LSU. I knew that I would have the opportunity to win a national championship during my career. I was fortunate enough to do that my senior year. Our team was really close, and it was even like that with athletes of different sports. We were like one big family on campus. It's a great honor for me to say that I'm from LSU."

"Being a professional athlete, it's easy for people in my profession to assume that's what they will be doing for the rest of their life. The reality is that I will have a second dream job. As I continue to train and hurdle at LSU with Coach Shaver, he has continued to help me work on my resume and prepare for the day after my track career is over. He truly is a great mentor and coach, but to this day he is also a great friend. I will always be grateful to him and LSU for the many opportunities I've been given in my life."

Lolo Jones
3-time Olympian
2-time World Indoor Champion
American Record Holder (60 Hurdles)

"I chose LSU because of its outstanding history in sprinting, great coaches and top-notch facilities. With Coach Shaver's coaching expertise and patience with me to develop, I have been able to achieve greatness at the collegiate level and internationally. He's like a father to us and stresses the importance of not only excelling on the track, but also in the classroom towards obtaining our degree. I'm definitely a true Tiger at heart, on and off the track."

Richard Thompson
3-time Olympic Medalist
4-time NCAA Champion
8-time NCAA All-American

"My experience at LSU will forever be etched in my mind. Those have been the best years of my life. The coaching staff was instrumental in my development as an athlete by providing me with the proper environment for growth and maturity. Coach Shaver cared about my teammates and I, not just as athletes, but he also cared about our well being and made sure we stayed on track to graduate. I'm very fortunate to have had the chance to attend LSU, and I'm proud to call myself an LSU graduate."

Peta-Gaye Dowdie
2000 Olympian
3-time NCAA Champion
19-time NCAA All-American

An Era OF EXCELLENCE

2008 Women's NCAA Outdoor National Champions

Since 1897, LSU Track & Field has built an illustrious history filled with some of the most memorable performers and achievements in the school's colorful athletic heritage. From its quiet birth at the Tulane Spring Games to its seat atop collegiate track prominence, there are two factors that have remained consistent in the 115-year history of the program – success through hard work and an unmatched will to win.

H. Warren Taylor, Jr., LSU Track & Field historian, wrote it best when he said, "Tom Sherburne and Devall drew the distinction of being the first men of the Old War Skule to carry the purple and gold on the cinder path. That they failed to win in their events does not distract from their envious place in Tiger track history; for they were the forerunners of a host of sterling athletes that have established a record of consistent winning unsurpassed in the southland."

The rest is history.

National Championships

After winning five Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association conference championships between 1913-1922 and capturing three consecutive SIC titles, LSU Track & Field burst onto the national scene with an improbable upset of heavily-favored Southern California to win the 1933 national championship at Soldier Field in Chicago. The LSU track team was led by the speed of Glenn "Slat" Hardin and the strength of Jack Torrance. Hardin set new world records in the 440-yard dash (47.1) and 220 low hurdles (22.9), while Torrance did the same in the shot put (52-10).

Despite their record-breaking performances, the national title did not rest in the Tigers' hands until the final event when Matt Gordy cleared 14 feet in the pole vault for the first time in his career to secure LSU's first ever national championship in any sport.

With the men already firmly established among the nation's elite, the Lady Tigers captured their first national championship in 1987 in the program's sixth season of existence. Led by NCAA individual champions Schowonda Williams, Sylvia Brydson and Sheila Echols, the LSU women swept both the indoor and outdoor national titles that season. They went on to repeat their outdoor success in 1988.

The LSU Track & Field program then reached a pinnacle in 1989 and 1990 as the teams brought a combined five national championships to Baton Rouge. The Tigers and Lady Tigers each won back-to-back NCAA Outdoor titles, while the women added an indoor title during the 1989 season. LSU's success during the two-year span marked the first time in NCAA history that the same school won both the men's and women's crowns at the NCAA Outdoor Championships.

The Lady Tigers pulled off another sweep in 1991, again claiming NCAA team titles at both the indoor and outdoor national meets.

One of the most memorable moments in LSU track lore came at the 1992 national championships in Austin, Texas. Trailing Florida entering the final day of competition, the Lady Tigers used a team effort to rally and defeat the Lady Gators, 87-81, for an unprecedented sixth-consecutive national crown.

The Lady Tigers showed their dominance once again by winning two more national titles in 1993. They captured their fourth indoor national championship in seven years by winning the last event of the meet – the 4x400-meter relay – in a then school-record time of 3 minutes, 33.63 seconds. LSU dominated the competition to win its seventh-consecutive NCAA Outdoor championship. The Lady Tigers did so in record-breaking fashion, scoring a school record 93 points to outscore their nearest competitor by a remarkable 49 points.

They made history again in 1996 by winning their 10th-straight outdoor national championship. Never before had a women's team won at least 10-straight titles in any NCAA sport. Led by seniors D'Andre Hill, Kim Carson and Zundra Feagin, the Lady Tigers stormed into historic Hayward Field in Eugene, Oregon, and took their place in history.

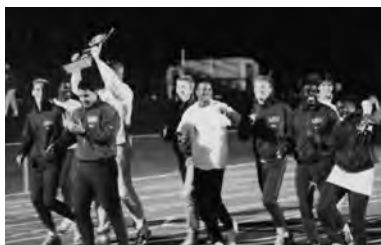

While an outsider might see an 11th-straight NCAA Outdoor title in 1997 as just another day at the office, it was far from it.

A heavy underdog, the LSU women exploded for 43 points on the meet's final day to capture the outdoor crown once again in Bloomington, Indiana. The competition came down to a single event between LSU and Texas – the 200-meter final. LSU qualified Astia Walker and Peta-Gaye Dowdie, while Texas countered with two runners as well. The Lady Tigers knew they had to outscore Texas by a single point in the event to win the title. Walker finished second and Dowdie placed fifth, while Nanceen Perry and Angie Vaughan of Texas placed third and fourth, respectively.

When the points were tallied, LSU outscored Texas, 12-11, in the most crucial race of the meet to give the Lady Tigers the one-point advantage they needed to clinch the overall title by the score of 63-62.

The Lady Tigers also claimed a fifth-straight NCAA Indoor crown in 1997 for their eighth in an 11-year span. Remarkably, the LSU women took home 19 of a possible 22 NCAA team championships between the 1987-97 seasons, creating a dynasty unmatched by any other in the history of women's athletics.

Despite a three-year hiatus, the Lady Tigers regained the title they last held in 1997 by winning their 12th title at the NCAA Outdoor Championships in 2000. The Lady Tigers scored 46 points on the final day of competition to edge USC, 58-54.

LSU picked up yet another national title in 2001, but this time, it was the men's team stealing the spotlight. Needing a miracle in the final event of the NCAA Indoor Championships, the Tigers' prayers were answered when the foursome of Robert Parham, Lueroy Colquhoun, Pedro Tunon and Alleyne Francique won the 4x400-meter relay and TCU failed to score, giving the Tigers a 34-33 edge over the Horned Frogs in one of the most exciting finishes in NCAA history. Walter Davis scored 18 of LSU's 34 points in the meet, winning the triple jump and finishing second in the long jump.

Both teams added championships to their already impressive resumes in 2002 with the women winning the team title at the NCAA Indoor Championships in Fayetteville, Arkansas, and the men capturing the crown at the NCAA Outdoor Championships in front of a home crowd at the Bernie Moore Track Stadium in Baton Rouge. The Lady Tigers would go on to sweep NCAA Indoor and Outdoor titles in 2003 while being led by individual champions Muna Lee and Lolo Jones, as well as a 4x100-meter relay team that set the low-altitude collegiate record of 42.55 at the NCAA Outdoor meet that stood for six seasons.

LSU made history once again in 2004 as it became the first school in NCAA history to claim both the men's and women's titles at the indoor national championships. Spearheaded by Lee's national title in the 60-meter dash and runner-up performances by Jones in the 60-meter hurdles and Neisha Bernard-Thomas in the 800 meters, the Lady Tigers squeaked out a 52-51 win over UCLA.

It was LSU's jumps corps that proved to be the difference in the Tigers' victory as the team was led by the likes of John Moffitt, LeJuan Simon and Willie Bradley to its first indoor crown since 2001. Moffitt won the long jump title and was then part of the Tigers' unprecedented 1-2-3 sweep in the triple jump. Simon won the individual title with Moffitt finishing second and Bradley coming in third.

Since the Lady Tigers won their first national championship in 1987, no four-year senior class had ever left Baton Rouge without winning at least one team title at the NCAA Championships until 2012. It's a remarkable streak that spanned 23 seasons and a legacy that is with the squad each time it steps onto the track. But in 2008, it appeared the streak might come to an end at the NCAA Outdoor Championships in Des Moines, Iowa.

After joining the program as freshmen in 2005, members of the Class of 2008 had finished runner-up at the NCAA Indoor and Outdoor Championships three times, but without a title to show for their efforts. That would all change in dramatic fashion at Drake Stadium on the campus of Drake University.

LSU and defending NCAA Outdoor champion Arizona State entered the final event of the track meet - the 4x400-meter relay - tied with 59 points apiece and a foursome on the track. The team that crossed the finish line first would walk away as national champions of the 2008 outdoor season.

On this day, it was LSU winning the team title behind the efforts of senior Brooklynn Morris, senior Kelly Baptiste, sophomore LaTavia Thomas and senior Deonna Lawrence, who finished the relay in second place ahead of the fifth-place finish by the Sun Devils. And for eight Lady Tiger seniors who made the trip to Des Kelly Willie was a 2004 Olympic Gold Medalist in the 4x400 relay.

Moines, it was their first time to lift the national championship trophy in celebration of their accomplishment.

Baptiste was the star for the Lady Tigers, scoring 19 of LSU's 67 points for the meet with an NCAA title in the 100-meter dash, along with All-America performances in the 200 meters, 4x100-meter relay and 4x400-meter relay.

Olympics and World Championships

The LSU Track & Field program is recognized worldwide for its contribution to the sport, and the purple and gold is certainly on display every four years as the Tigers and Lady Tigers are among the elite performers at the Olympic Games.

That was certainly the case in London in 2012 as 10 members of the program representing four countries from around the world competed on the world's grandest stage. LSU emerged from the Games of the XXX Olympiad with 16 Olympic medals won all-time as former LSU stars Richard Thompson and Samantha Henry and Tiger senior Ade Alleyne-Forte earned medals for their efforts in London.

Thompson became the most decorated Olympian in the history of LSU athletics while anchoring Trinidad & Tobago to the silver medal in the 4x100-meter relay. He is the only LSU athlete regardless of sport to win three Olympic medals all-time as he also won a pair of silver medals in the 100-meter dash and 4x100-meter relay at the 2008 Olympic Games held in Beijing.

Alleyne-Forte joined Thompson as a medalist for Trinidad & Tobago as he ran the third leg on the team that took home the bronze in the 4x400 relay. Henry also claimed a silver medal in her Olympics debut as she ran on Jamaica's 4x100-meter relay team in the prelim.

With their performance, the Tigers and Lady Tigers have now won a total of six gold medals, six silver medals and four bronze medals all-time at the Olympic Games.

LSU's participation in major international competition can be traced back to 1928 in Amsterdam when Sid Bowman became the first Tiger to compete at the Olympic Games, finishing sixth in the triple jump. Bowman and LSU legend Glenn "Slats" Hardin later placed at the 1932 Olympic Games in Los Angeles as Hardin became LSU's first medal winner by taking the silver in the 400 hurdles.

At the 1936 Berlin Games, Adolf Hitler and Nazi Germany watched as LSU's Hardin, Jack Torrance and Billy Brown competed for the United States. Hardin made history in the 400 hurdles, becoming the first and only LSU track athlete to win an individual Olympic gold medal.

LSU's next Olympic Games participant came in 1964 as Billy Hardin ran the 400 hurdles for the United States in Tokyo, Japan. It would then be 24 years before LSU had another athlete perform in this international arena once again.

At the 1988 Olympic Games in Seoul, South Korea, Sheila Echols of the United States became the first Lady Tiger to win a gold medal as she earned distinction as a member of the United States' gold-medal-winning 4x100-meter relay team. She competed in Seoul alongside LSU greats Schowonda Williams (United States), Robin van Helden (Holland), Mikael Olander (Sweden), Laverne Eve (Bahamas) and Angela Phipps (Canada).

The LSU contingent at the 1992 Barcelona Olympics was led by 21-time All-American Esther Jones of the United States, who won a gold medal as a member of the winning 4x100-meter relay. It marked the second-straight Olympics that a Lady Tiger led the United States to gold in the event as she followed in the footsteps of Echols in 1988.

LSU Track & Field was well-represented once again at the 1996 Olympic Games in Atlanta as a former athlete won Olympic gold for the third-straight games. Glenroy Gilbert ran the second leg on Canada's 4x100-meter relay that shocked the United States to win gold. The only American collegiate woman to compete in a track event in Atlanta, D'Andre Hill advanced to the semifinals of the 100-meter dash. While representing Jamaica, Debbie Parris just missed the medal stand by placing fourth in the 400-meter hurdles, while David Kiptoo finished sixth in the men's 800 meters while running for Kenya.

During the 1999 indoor season, former Tiger All-American Rohsaan Griffin made a splash in the 200-meter dash by smashing the American indoor record in the event with a time of 20.32. His blistering mark won him the American title that year and qualified him into the finals at World Indoor Championships.

Just a year later, LSU once again had its share of representatives at the 2000 Olympic Games in Sydney, Australia. Eight athletes with LSU ties made the trek halfway across the world to compete for their respective countries. Claston Bernard and Walter Davis made the trip down under representing Jamaica and the United States, respectively, while 2000 NCAA champions Dowdie and Keisha Spencer each represented Jamaica.

LSU's success on the world stage continued in the summer of 2003 as five former athletes all placed at the World Championships in Paris. Both Brew and Ronetta Smith medaled as Brew won gold as part of the United States' 4x400-meter relay team and Smith secured bronze as a member of Jamaica's 4x400 relay. Also securing top-10 finishes were Walter Davis in the long jump (seventh), Laverne Eve in the javelin (eighth) and Claston Bernard in the decathlon (ninth).

At the 2004 World Indoor Championships, former Tigers Alleyne Francique and Lueroy Colquhoun won gold for their native countries of Grenada and Jamaica, respectively. Francique won the individual crown in the 400 meters, while Colquhoun helped Jamaica to a first-place finish in the 4x400-meter relay.

The 2004 Olympics in Athens, Greece, was a showcase for LSU talent as 15 athletes with ties to the program made the trip overseas and brought home a total of six Olympic medals. Brew, Kelly Willie and John Moffitt each medaled for the United States. Brew won bronze in the 400 meters before joining forces with Willie to win gold in the 4x400-meter relay. Moffitt was part of a 1-2 American finish in the long jump, finishing second in his first major international competition. On the women's side, Nadia Davy and Ronetta Smith helped lead their native Jamaica to a bronze medal in the 4x400 relay.

The 2005 World Championships were once again peppered with current and former LSU athletes as 13 Tigers and Lady Tigers made the trip to Helsinki, Finland. Four former standouts turned in stellar performances while bringing home medals from the championship meet. Davis won individual gold for the United States, taking home the men's triple jump title. Lee and Brew also helped the United States to gold-medal winning performances in the women's 4x100 relay and the men's 4x400 relay, respectively. In addition, Smith helped Jamaica to a silver medal in the women's 4x400-meter relay.

Davis added another individual gold medal in the triple jump to his resume at the 2006 IAAF World Indoor Championships when he posted a personal best and meet-winning leap of 58-2 for the United States. Francique added the second world championship of his stellar career at the indoor meet as he won gold in the 400 meters while competing for Grenada.

Davis took his place on the medal stand once again as he won a bronze medal in the triple jump at the 2007 IAAF World Outdoor Championships in Osaka, Japan. The Baton Rouge native was one of 10 current and former LSU athletes to compete in the prestigious event and the only one to bring home a medal. Lady Tiger great Lolo Jones then added her name to LSU's list of athletes to be crowned World Champion with her win in the 60-meter hurdles at the 2008 IAAF World Indoor Championships in Valencia, Spain.

In 2010, Jones made history yet again by becoming the first athlete in meet history to defend her World Indoor gold medal in the 60-meter hurdles. And she did so in stunning fashion by smashing Gail Devers' 7-year-old American record in the event with a winning time of 7.72. Devers set the previous record of 7.74 back in 2003.

LSU athletes then added a pair of bronze medals at the 2011 IAAF World Championships in Daegu, South Korea, as Trinidadian Kelly Baptiste (100 meters) and Jamaican Riker Hylton (4x400) placed for their countries.

The Coaches

LSU Track & Field has been blessed with exceptional coaching talent, but during its first 18 years, LSU did not have a coach whose tenure lasted more than three seasons. The program's first full-time coach was Tad Gormley, who arrived on the Baton Rouge campus in 1916. During his 12-year stint, LSU won three SIAA titles.

After Gormley's departure, the legendary Bernie Moore took over the program in 1930. Moore molded the Tigers into a national power, and in 1933, guided the team to its first national championship, as well as a win at the inaugural SEC Outdoor Track & Field Championships. The Tigers reigned over the young Southeastern Conference by capturing 12 championships in the next 18 seasons under Moore.

Former Tiger great Al Moreau then took over the program in 1949, and LSU Track & Field never broke stride. Under Moreau, LSU captured six SEC Outdoor titles and two SEC Indoor crowns.

LSU Track & Field then reached its zenith under the direction of head coach Pat Henry, and what he accomplished in 17 seasons was nothing short of remarkable.

The most successful coach in school history in any sport, Henry became only the second coach in NCAA history to win 20 NCAA titles as the Lady Tigers came away victorious at the 2000 NCAA Outdoor Championships in Durham, North Carolina. Henry then added seven additional NCAA team titles to his resume before his departure in 2004. In his 17 years in Baton Rouge, Henry guided the Lady Tigers to 12 outdoor and 10 indoor titles, while leading the Tigers to three outdoor crowns and two indoor titles.

Dennis Shaver has added his name alongside the likes of Moore, Henry and Sam Seemes as coaches to lead LSU to a national championship as head coach. Shaver guided the Lady Tigers to their 25th national championship and the 31st team title in the history of LSU Track & Field with a win at the NCAA Outdoor meet in 2008. The Lady Tigers have also won seven SEC team championships under Shaver, including five outdoor and two indoor championships since 2005.

At the 2005 NCAA Outdoor Track & Field Championships, the men's 4x400-meter relay team of Reggie Dardar, Kelly Willie, Bennie Brazell and Xavier Carter set a new collegiate record of 2 minutes, 59.59 seconds to win its third outdoor national title in the event. Their collegiate record stands to this day.

Dominance

ON THE TRACK

With 31 national championships in the record books, LSU has created the most balanced track and field program in the nation. The Lady Tigers have set a standard in women's sports that may never be matched. Between 1987 and 1997, the Lady Tigers won an unprecedented 11 consecutive outdoor national championships, a streak that stands as the benchmark of excellence in women's collegiate athletics to this day.

NCAA Champions

The Lady Tigers returned to their rightful place atop the awards stand after winning the national title at the 2008 NCAA Division I Outdoor Track & Field Championships in Des Moines, Iowa. The LSU women have set a standard of excellence for all programs to follow by winning a total of 25 NCAA team championships in their storied history.

Nation's Best

Their streak is impressive even when considering men's sports. The lone streak that betters the LSU women is the 12-straight indoor championships won by the Arkansas men's track and field team from 1984-95.

However, when considering the dominance of the Lady Tiger track program in just the parameters of women's track and field, there is no other team in the history of the sport that can compare. Since the inception of the women's NCAA Track & Field Championships in 1982, the Lady Tigers have won 14 (1987-97, 2000, 2003, 2008) of the 32 outdoor championships contested, and have finished second at three additional contests (1985, 2004, 2007). The Lady Tigers scored an average of 74.7 points a year during their run of 11-straight titles and dominated the field in 1993 and 1994, doubling the team points scored by the respective second-place finishers in both seasons.

Not to be overshadowed by the accomplishments of the Lady Tigers, LSU's total track and field program has made NCAA history several times as well. In 1989, both the men's and women's programs won NCAA Outdoor titles, marking the first time in history that one school claimed both the men's and women's outdoor national championships during the same season. It went on to repeat the feat in 1990, again rewriting NCAA track and field history. In 2004, LSU once again became the first school to ever sweep both the men's and women's national crowns at the NCAA Indoor Championships.

In addition to the program's team success, former LSU great Xavier

Carter made history at the 2006 NCAA Outdoor Championships by becoming the first collegiate athlete since Ohio State's Jesse Owens in 1936 to win four individual titles at a single NCAA meet. Carter won titles in the 100 meters, 400 meters, 4x100-meter relay and 4x400-meter relay.

As the 2016 season approaches, the Tigers and Lady Tigers are poised to challenge for SEC and NCAA titles once again during both the indoor and outdoor seasons. Head coach Dennis Shaver will lead two of the nation's more talented squads as they look to carry the torch for this storied LSU program.

Relay Legacy

(Above) Fitzroy Dunkley, Quincy Downing, Vernon Norwood and Cyril Grayson ended the 2015 season as NCAA Outdoor Champions in the men's 4x100-meter relay after running 3 minutes, 1.96 seconds in the national final. Norwood also swept NCAA Indoor and NCAA Outdoor titles in the 400 meters a year ago. (Above, Right) The Lady Tigers wrapped up the 2007 NCAA Outdoor Championships with a bang by successfully defending their national title in the 4x400 relay. Nickiesha Wilson, Cynetheia Rooks, LaTavia Thomas and Deonna Lawrence ran 3:28.07 to win it. LSU has won a total of 42 NCAA relay titles in the 4x100 and 4x400 relays between the men's and women's teams.

The Lady Tigers' string of 11 consecutive NCAA Outdoor titles from 1987-97 is an astounding accomplishment unmatched at the Division I level in any women's collegiate sport. From its beginning in Baton Rouge in 1987 to its conclusion in 1997 at Indiana University, the streak was filled with some of the most incredible performances and amazing athletes in Lady Tiger track history. It was a streak with everything: down-to-the-wire finishes, blowouts, gut-wrenching drama, all the moments in which legends are made.

While the names and faces responsible for the 11 titles changed, the level of consistency and drive to ascend to the pinnacle of the sport remained throughout the streak's entirety. The following is a look back at the Lady Tigers' remarkable streak.

For more than 20 years, LSU's men's and women's relay teams have been a hallmark of its track and field program at the NCAA Championships. LSU is the only school to ever win both the men's and women's 4x100-meter relays in the same year as it has done so four times, winning consecutive championships between 1992-94 and again in 2003.

From the Penn Relays and the Texas Relays to the NCAA Championships, LSU's relay teams are one of the biggest attractions in NCAA track and field. The following is a look at LSU's year-by-year finishes in the 4x100-meter relay at the NCAA Championships.

In fact, the Lady Tigers have run five of the 10 fastest times in NCAA history, which is tied for the most than any other program in the history of collegiate track and field.

The X-Man

SHADES OF JESSE OWENS

Jesse Owens

Prior to Carter's performance, Jesse Owens of Ohio State was the only collegiate athlete to win four individual national titles at a single NCAA meet as he earned four gold medals at the NCAA Outdoor Championships in 1935 and 1936.

LSU's Carter Makes History at NCAA Championships

June 10, 2006, is a date that is sure live forever in the proud and storied history of the LSU Track & Field program. On a warm afternoon at the Alex G. Spanos Sports Complex on the campus of Sacramento State University in Sacramento, California, LSU great Xavier Carter stepped into history while matching a feat only accomplished by one other man in the history of collegiate track and field – the legendary Jesse Owens.

Not since Owens competed for Ohio State in 1935 and 1936 had a collegiate athlete won four NCAA gold medals at a single national championship meet. That's until Carter snapped the 70-year drought and added his name alongside one of the true icons of the sport by capturing NCAA championships in the 100-meter dash, 400-meter dash, 4x100-meter relay and 4x400-meter relay. In fact, Carter became the first athlete in meet history to double with NCAA wins in the 100 meters and 400 meters in the same season.

And Carter did so in record-setting fashion while becoming the fastest man in LSU Track & Field history in one of the most exciting NCAA Championships of all-time. It is a performance that will likely never be equaled by another athlete as long as the NCAA Championships are contested and one that should always be celebrated as one of the greatest individual feats in college sports.

4x100-Meter Relay

Carter struck gold for the first time at the national meet in on June 9, 2006, by running the second leg on LSU's 4x100-meter relay team that wrapped up an undefeated season with a comfortable win in the finals while running what was then the sixth-fastest time in NCAA history at 38.44. LSU featured a star-studded lineup as Carter teamed with the likes of future Olympic silver medalist Richard Thompson on the first leg, Marvin Stevenson on the third leg and Olympic gold medalist and seven-time NCAA champion Kelly Willie on the anchor leg to defeat Tennessee (38.86) by more than four-tenths of a second. UTEP finished well back in third place with a time of 38.99. Pictured (from left to right) is the team of Carter, Thompson, Willie and Stevenson following its win at the 2006 Penn Relays.

4x400-Meter Relay

With three NCAA gold medals already in the bag, Carter returned to the track for the third time on the meet's final day to run the anchor leg of LSU's fearsome 4x400-meter relay team. Just one season after it smashed the collegiate record with an NCAA-title-winning time of 2:59.59 at the national meet, the squad defended its crown and put an exclamation point onto the end of an undefeated 2006 season with a win in Sacramento. Carter joined Reggie Dardar on the first leg, Kelly Willie on the second leg and Melville Rogers on the third leg to run 3:01.58 and finish more than a half second ahead of TCU (3:02.12) for the title. Baylor finished more than one second behind in third place at 3:02.93. LSU's victory in the mile relay led to a second-place finish in the final team standings with 51 points for the meet.

400-Meter Dash

Perhaps Carter's most impressive feat of the 2006 NCAA Outdoor Championships came in the 400-meter final when he had only 40 minutes to rest following his win in the 100 meters. After allowing the field to go out fast while holding his ground through the first 300 meters, Carter turned on the jets around the last turn to cross the finish line with another personal-best time of 44.53 that remains as the second-fastest run in the history of the LSU Track & Field program. While crossing his arms in the form of an "X" as he ran through the finish line, Carter took the title ahead of Ricardo Chambers of Florida State (44.71) and future Olympic 400-meter bronze medalist David Neville of Indiana (44.94). In a grueling performance that may never be duplicated, Carter remains the only sprinter in meet history to successfully complete the 100/400 double at the NCAA Championships.

100-Meter Dash

In one of the deepest fields ever assembled for the 100-meter final at the NCAA Championships, Carter outlasted them all to win his second event title of the meet. With defending champion and future Olympic bronze medalist Walter Dix playing the role of favorite, Carter was seen as an All-America contender, but someone who would have to pull out an upset to take the title. That's exactly what Carter did to dethrone Dix (10.18) as the NCAA champion as he took home the gold with a then school-record time of 10.09 run into a strong headwind. The national final also featured the likes of future collegiate record holder Travis Padgett of Clemson (10.24), future Kansas City Chiefs running back Jamaal Charles of Texas (10.27) and Churandy Martina of Texas-El Paso (10.29).

The Bowerman Trophy

In its first iteration, weighing over 35 pounds and standing at 20 inches tall and 20 inches wide, the body of the trophy is milled from a solid block of aluminum and plated with 18-karat gold. An acrylic fin is attached at the top portion of the trophy embossed with a three-dimensional image of Bowerman. One of the most unique, and telling, characteristics of the trophy is its use of a rubber, waffle-shaped outsole for its bottom layer, a tribute to Bowerman's invention of the waffle-shaped shoe sole.

The Bowerman trophy is a stunning, one-of-a-kind figure that embodies the spirit of Bill Bowerman, combining aspects of speed, shape and asymmetry to forge a symbol of excellence in track and field.

THE Bowerman AWARD

What is The Bowerman?

Now in its sixth year of existence, The Bowerman is collegiate track and field's equivalent to the Heisman Trophy in college football and is presented annually by the U.S. Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association to the top athlete at the collegiate level on the men's and women's sides. It is presented annually as part of the USTFCCCA National Convention.

The USTFCCCA publishes a "watch list" of 10 men and 10 women under consideration for The Bowerman during the collegiate season each year. The Bowerman Advisory Board then finalizes a list of 10 semifinalists for both genders following the NCAA Division I Outdoor Track & Field Championships before announcing three finalists during the summer.

The Bowerman voters consist of national and regional media personnel, track and field statisticians, NCAA collegiate administrators and presidents of affiliated organizations. In addition, USTFCCCA members collectively receive one (1) vote and fans collectively receive one (1) vote in voting for The Bowerman each year.

Who is Bill Bowerman?

Bill Bowerman's legacy in track and field is undeniable. He served as the University of Oregon's head track and field coach from 1949-72 and remained active at the University and in the coaching world even as the shoe company he founded, Nike, grew into a global sports giant.

A University of Oregon graduate, Bowerman returned to his alma mater as its head track and field and cross country coach in 1948. Over the next 23 years, the Ducks experienced new levels of success, winning four national championships and twice finishing as the national runner-up. Bowerman's athletes were equally as successful as he coached 24 NCAA individual champions, 33 Olympians and 64 All-Americans, and athletes who have achieved 13 world records and 23 American records.

Bowerman's contributions extend far beyond the University of Oregon. Bowerman served as the National Collegiate Track Coaches Association's (NCTCA) vice president in 1958-59 and took the helm as its president in 1959-60. The NCTCA is one of several predecessor organizations that now form the U.S. Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association (USTFCCCA).

Bowerman also served as the head track and field coach for the 1972 U.S. Olympic Team and played a leading role in Eugene's successful bids to host the 1972, 1976 and 1980 U.S. Olympic Trials.

Although Bowerman's tenure at Oregon is long over, his impact on the University, on track and field and on the global sports arena continues to be felt. For his numerous contributions to the sport of track and field and to the coaching profession, Bowerman was an inaugural inductee into the USTFCCCA Hall of Fame in 1995.

LSU's Kimberlyn Duncan (third from left) took home The Bowerman as the nation's premier women's track and field athlete of 2012. Southern Utah's Cam Levins (third from right) was honored as the men's recipient in the same season. Other 2012 finalists included (from left to right) Oregon's Brianne Theisen, Arizona's Brigetta Barrett, Florida's Tony McQuay and Illinois' Andrew Riley.

LSU's Kimberlyn Duncan made history in 2012 as she became the first SEC athlete in the The Bowerman's existence to win the award honoring the premier athlete in collegiate track and field. She also made history as the first two-time finalist in the history of the award after being honored among the nation's elite for the first time in 2011.

Duncan was announced as the women's recipient of The Bowerman following the 2012 season as she was joined by two other finalists in Arizona high jumper Brigetta Barrett and Oregon heptathlete Brianne Theisen. Distance runner Cam Levins of Southern Utah was honored as the men's recipient of The Bowerman as a highlight of the 2012 U.S. Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association National Convention held at the JW Marriott Grande Lakes in Orlando, Florida.

It marked the second year in a row in which Duncan was honored as a finalist for the NCAA's top individual award in track and field. She was recognized as a finalist following her sophomore season in 2011 along with Texas A&M's Jessica Beard and Arkansas' Tina Sutej.

"I'm in total shock right now, I don't even know what to say," Duncan said following her announcement as The Bowerman recipient in 2012. "When I heard them call my name, I had to take a moment just to make sure I heard them right. It's so surreal. To know that those voting for this award see me as the best athlete at this level is very humbling to me. We have some amazing athletes from some great programs here tonight. Any one of them is deserving of this award. Of course, I'm very excited to win it this year while representing my school and my team at LSU.

"This only pushes me and motivates me to reach my full potential in this sport. I'm very honored to receive this award, and will work even harder."

Winners of The Bowerman also include Oregon's Galen Rupp (2009) and Ashton Eaton (2010), Florida State's Ngoni Makusha (2011), Levins (2012), Indiana's Derek Drouin (2013), Texas A&M's Deon Lendore (2014) and Florida's Marquis Dendy (2015) on the men's side; and Colorado's Jenny Barringer (2009), Virginia Tech's Queen Harrison (2010), Beard (2011), Clemson's Brianna Rollins (2013) and Oregon's Laura Roesler (2014) and Jenna Prandini (2015) on the women's side.

Duncan was joined on stage by LSU head coach Dennis Shaver following The Bowerman Ceremony at the 2012 USTFCCA National Convention.

Ten current and former members of the LSU Track & Field program representing four countries from around the world made the trip to London, England, to compete in the 2012 Olympic Games in the most prestigious competition the sport has to offer. They certainly made their school proud with their performance in London once again as LSU's 10 athletes ranked No. 5 for Olympic representation among all programs in collegiate track and field.

GAMES OF THE XXX Olympiad

Led by the performance of medalists Ade Alleyne-Forte and Richard Thompson of Trinidad & Tobago and Samantha Henry of Jamaica, the Tigers and Lady Tigers were well-represented with 10 athletes competing at the Games of the XXX Olympiad held in London, England, in the summer of 2012.

Following his Olympics debut in 2008 in which he captured a pair of silver medals for his nation in the 100-meter dash and 4x100-meter relay, Thompson became the most decorated Olympian in the history of LSU athletics when he anchored his country to the silver medal in the 4x100 relay to claim a third Olympic medal as one of the world's bright young sprint stars.

In what proved to be the fastest relay race in history, Thompson anchored a Trinidad & Tobago team that also featured Keston Bledman, Marc Burns and Emmanuel Callender to a second-place finish with a run of 38.12 seconds in the final in London. Jamaica became the first relay team in history to break 37 seconds in breaking its own world record with a gold-medal-winning run of 36.84. The United States finished second in the race, but was later stripped of its silver medal by the International Olympic Committee.

That performance earned Thompson the distinction of being LSU's first athlete regardless of sport to win three Olympic medals in a career as he now owns three silver medals from the Olympic Games.

Not only that, but Thompson also lined up in the 100-meter final for the second-straight time as he crossed the finish line in seventh place with a 9.98 clocking after taking the silver medal with a run of 9.89 in 2008. Jamaica's Usain Bolt defended his Olympic gold medal with an Olympic record of 9.63, and Jamaican Yohan Blake struck silver in 9.75 with American Justin Gatlin taking the bronze in 9.79.

Like Thompson, Alleyne-Forte helped Trinidad & Tobago capture a bronze medal while running the third leg for his country in the 4x400-meter relay final. While making his Olympics debut following an All-American senior season with the Tigers, Alleyne-Forte split 45.44 as he joined with Lalonde Gordon, Jarrin Solomon and Deon Lendore in setting a national record of 2 minutes, 59.40 seconds to finish behind only the Bahamas (2:56.72) and United States

DID YOU KNOW? Former Tiger sprinter Richard Thompson is the most decorated Olympian in the history of LSU athletics, regardless of sport. Thompson's three Olympic medals won in 2008 and 2012 are more than any other athlete in the school's history.

(2:57.05) on the medal podium.

Also claiming a medal in her Olympics debut was former Lady Tiger standout Samantha Henry as she ran the leadoff leg for the Jamaicans in the qualifying round of the 4x100-meter relay. Jamaica had a silver-medal-winning second-place finish in the Olympic final.

With its athletes winning three medals during the competition in London, members of the LSU Track & Field program have now won 16 medals all-time with their performance at the Olympic Games. Since 400-meter hurdler Glenn "Slat" Hardin won a silver medal in Los Angeles, California, in 1932 and a gold medal in Berlin, Germany, in 1936, the Tigers and Lady Tigers have won six gold medals, six silver medals and four bronze medals all-time at the Olympic Games.

Three other Lady Tigers also lined up in Olympic finals during the competition in London in 2012 as hurdler Lolo Jones of the United States and sprinters Kelly Baptiste and Semoy Hackett of Trinidad & Tobago proved themselves among the world's premier performers in their events.

Jones nearly earned her place on the medal podium in her second Olympics appearance after earning a fourth-place finish in the final of the women's 100-meter hurdles. Baptiste, the reigning World Championships bronze medalist in the women's 100-meter dash, took sixth place in the deepest 100-meter field of the 2012 campaign, while Hackett crossed the finish line in eighth place in the 200-meter final in her Olympics debut in London.

Also making their second career appearance at the Olympic Games were former Lady Tigers Neisha Bernard-Thomas (Grenada) in the 800 meters and Nickiesha Wilson (Jamaica) in the 400 hurdles, while Tiger seniors Damar Forbes (long jump) and Riker Hylton (4x400 relay) made their Olympic debuts for Team Jamaica.

The LSU Track & Field program certainly made its presence felt at the 2008 Olympic Games as 12 Tigers and Lady Tigers past and present made the trip to Beijing, China, to compete against the world's best athletes in the sport's most prestigious competition. In fact, LSU had more track and field athletes qualify for the Beijing Games than any other collegiate program with seven countries represented in all, including the United States, Bahamas, Grenada, Guyana, Jamaica, Liberia and Trinidad & Tobago.

GAMES OF THE XXIX Olympiad

Senior Richard Thompson of Trinidad & Tobago carried the torch for the LSU program by winning a pair of silver medals in his Olympics debut.

With the spotlight shining brightly on American Tyson Gay and Jamaicans Usain Bolt and Asafa Powell entering the first round of 100-meter qualifying, the only question was where they would place on the medal podium after racing in the final. Thompson was an afterthought, despite lining up with the fifth-fastest time in the world of all the 100-meter sprinters in Beijing.

After cruising through three rounds of qualifying while matching his personal best with a time of 9.93 seconds in the semifinals, Thompson returned to the track two hours later and took his mark in lane five with Bolt to his left and American Walter Dix to his right. The stage was set for a dramatic conclusion to perhaps the most anticipated 100-meter final in the history of the Olympic Games, and Thompson did not disappoint.

Thompson was the first in the eight-man field to fire out of the blocks with a 0.133 reaction time and raced to the finish line with a new personal best of 9.89 to win the silver medal for both his country and LSU in his debut. He is LSU's first-ever medalist in the 100-meter dash and is the school's second individual Olympic medalist in the sprint events all-time after former Tiger standout Derrick Brew won a bronze medal in the 400-meter dash in Athens, Greece, in 2004.

But Thompson didn't stop there as he went on to anchor his country's 4x100-meter relay team to a silver medal to put an exclamation point on a truly unforgettable season.

DID YOU KNOW? LSU was represented by more track and field athletes at the 2008 Olympic Games than any other collegiate program as 12 Tigers and Lady Tigers made the trip to Beijing.

The 2008 season also saw the emergence of former Lady Tiger star Lolo Jones as the world's premier sprint hurdler with her dominating victory in the 100 hurdles at the U.S. Olympic Trials. Jones carried the title of gold-medal favorite into the finals of her first career Olympic Games after setting a world-leading and personal-best time of 12.43 in the semifinals in Beijing.

And Jones could already see the gold medal being placed around her neck after racing out to a commanding lead over the rest of the field through eight hurdles in the final. But dreams of Olympic gold were dashed in a split second as she failed to clear the ninth hurdle of the race with the same ease that she has shown throughout her career. With a comfortable two-meter lead on the rest of the field, Jones raised her right leg to clear the hurdle, but sent it crashing to the track in an instant. She struggled to keep her balance over the last hurdle and finished in seventh place.

Despite her misfortune in Beijing, Jones showed the grace and class that has endeared her to fans of American track and field throughout her career. An editorial printed in the Aug. 20, 2008, edition of the Los Angeles Times said it best that "A champion is the class of the field. No one in these Olympics has shown any more class than Lolo Jones."

While Thompson and Jones were the most recognizable LSU stars to compete in Beijing, they were not alone as former Lady Tiger Muna Lee represented the United States well after earning a fourth-place finish in the 200 meters and a fifth-place finish in the 100 meters. For Lee, it was her second career appearance in the Olympic Games after competing in Athens in 2004.

One Tiger also received the honor of carrying his nation's flag during the opening ceremonies as former LSU star Alleyne Francique led the Grenada contingent around the track and onto the infield of the "Bird's Nest" National Stadium on opening night. Francique competed in the 400 meters at the Olympics for the second time in his career. Like Francique, former Lady Tiger halfmileer Marian Burnett of Guyana made her second appearance, while Laverne Eve of the Bahamas threw the javelin for a school-record fifth time at the Olympic Games.

Also making their Olympics debut in Beijing were Kelly Baptiste (Trinidad & Tobago), Neisha Bernard-Thomas (Grenada), Sherry Fletcher (Grenada), Isa Phillips (Jamaica), Siraj Williams (Liberia) and Nickiesha Wilson (Jamaica).

LSU OLYMPIC MEDALISTS

Glenn "Slats" Hardin
United States

Glenn "Slats" Hardin holds the distinction as being the only LSU Track & Field athlete to win a gold medal in an individual event at the Olympic Games. The most dominant 400-meter hurdler in the first half of the 20th century, Hardin won a silver medal in Los Angeles in 1932 and a gold medal in Berlin in 1936. He wrapped up a brilliant career at LSU in 1935 as a four-time NCAA champion, six-time SEC champion and six-time All-American.

Esther Jones
United States

Arguably the most dominant sprinter to ever wear the Lady Tiger uniform, Esther Jones became the third Olympic gold medalist in the history of the track and field program with her win in the 4x100-meter relay for the United States in Barcelona, Spain, in 1992. She earned a school record 21 All-America honors for the Lady Tigers from 1988-91 and swept NCAA titles in the 100 meters and 200 meters during her junior season in 1990.

Sheila Echols
United States

Sheila Echols became the first Lady Tiger to win an Olympic medal as she struck gold as a member of the United States' 4x100-meter relay team at the Olympic Games in Seoul, South Korea, in 1988. Despite her Olympic glory in the sprint relay, Echols actually made a name for herself at LSU as the nation's premier long jumper as she won an NCAA title in the event in 1987. Echols was a two-time NCAA champion and seven-time All-American during her LSU career.

Glenroy Gilbert
Canada

The LSU Track & Field program was represented by nine athletes at the centennial Olympic Games in Atlanta in 1996, and none shined brighter than Glenroy Gilbert as he guided Canada's 4x100-meter relay to an improbable gold medal over the favored foursome from the United States. During his brief two-year career with the Tigers, Gilbert earned three All-America honors and ran on LSU's NCAA champion relay team during the 1993 season.

LSU athletes have won a total of 16 medals all-time at the Olympic Games, including 11 for the Tigers and five for the Lady Tigers. LSU is well-represented each year as at least one athlete has competed in 11 different Olympic Games all-time.

Derrick Brew United States

The Tigers have produced many of the world's premier quartermilers over the years, and Derrick Brew certainly ranks among the all-time greats at LSU following his effort at the 2004 Olympic Games in Athens, Greece. Brew became the first LSU sprinter to medal in an individual event as he won bronze in the 400-meter dash, while he also struck gold as a member of the United States' 4x400-meter relay at the site of the inaugural Olympic Games in 1896.

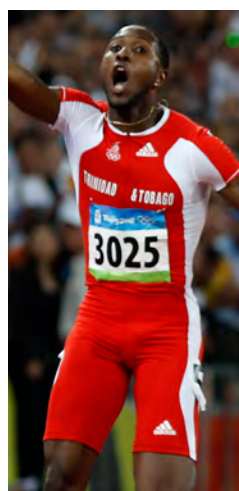

Kelly Willie United States

Derrick Brew was not the only Tiger to win a gold medal as a member of the United States' 4x400-meter relay at the 2004 Olympic Games in Athens as fellow LSU star Kelly Willie also took his place on top of the medal podium as a gold medalist in the event. Willie became the youngest gold medalist in the history of the LSU program with his performance as a sophomore in 2004. Willie won seven NCAA titles and 19 All-America honors with the Tigers from 2003-06.

John Moffitt United States

After being crowned NCAA champion in the long jump during his senior season in 2004, John Moffitt made a splash in his Olympics debut with Team USA as he soared to a silver medal in the event in Athens, Greece. Moffitt, who earned six All-America honors during a two-year career with the Tigers in 2003-04, quickly earned a reputation as one of the world's preeminent talents with his performance. Moffitt swept NCAA Indoor and Outdoor titles as a senior in 2004.

Richard Thompson Trinidad & Tobago

Former LSU star Richard Thompson solidified his reputation as the most decorated Olympian in the history of LSU athletics as he claimed his third Olympic medal in London in 2012 as he anchored Trinidad & Tobago to a silver medal in the 4x100-meter relay. His effort in London followed his Olympic debut in Beijing, China, in 2008 when he captured a pair of silver medals in the 100-meter dash and 4x100-meter relay.

Induction occurs when student-athletes excel at the highest level. All members have won SEC and NCAA titles and have competed for their native countries at the Olympic Games. 1933 NCAA Champions

Sidney Bowman

Class of 1937

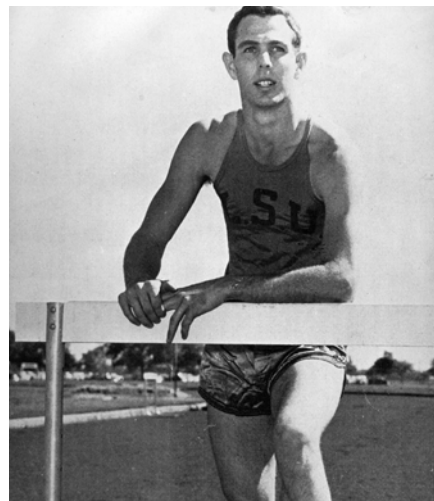

A three-year letterwinner at LSU from 1930-32, Sidney Bowman owns the distinction of being the first in a proud and storied tradition of LSU Olympians as he competed as part of the U.S. Olympic Team in Amsterdam in 1928 and Los Angeles in 1932. In fact, Bowman made his Olympics debut in 1928 following his high school graduation in Hammond, Louisiana, before even setting foot on LSU's campus for his freshman season. Bowman was also inducted as part of the 1937 class.

Billy Hardin

Class of 1970

With his induction in 1970, Billy Hardin joined his father, Glenn "Slats" Hardin, as a member of the LSU Athletics Hall of Fame following a distinguished collegiate career. Billy Hardin, who represented the United States at the 1964 Olympic Games in Tokyo, Japan, matched his father's achievement by winning the NCAA championship in the 400-meter hurdles during his senior season in 1964. A three-time All-American and seven-time SEC champion, the younger Hardin is perhaps the greatest LSU Track & Field athlete of his era.

Harry Carpenter

Class of 1986

The most accomplished LSU Track & Field athlete of the 1950s, Harry Carpenter racked up an incredible eight SEC event titles during a brief two-year collegiate career from 1956-57, while also leading the Tigers to an SEC team championship during the 1957 season. Most notably, Carpenter captured back-to-back league titles in both the 220-yard dash and 220-yard hurdles at the SEC Outdoor Championships as one of the SEC's most dominant sprinters and hurdlers of the decade. He was honored with induction into the LSU Athletics Hall of Fame in 1986.

D'Andre Hill Class of 2006

Lady Tiger great D'Andre Hill owns the distinction of being the only LSU sprinter on either the men's or women's teams to win back-to-back NCAA 100-meter titles with her victories at the NCAA Championships in 1995 and 1996. The 2006 LSU Athletics Hall of Fame inductee won six NCAA titles, six SEC titles and 15 All-America honors during an LSU career spanning five seasons from 1992-96. Hill also competed for Team USA at the 1996 Olympic Games in Atlanta.

Cheryl Taplin Class of 2006

Cheryl Taplin joined D'Andre Hill as an inductee into the LSU Athletics Hall of Fame during the summer of 2006 in honor of her career as one of the NCAA's leading sprinters during the 1990s. Taplin, who won three-straight NCAA crowns as a member of LSU's prolific 4x100-meter relay team in 1992, 1993 and 1994, competed for the Lady Tiger program for four seasons while leading the team to seven NCAA team titles from 1991-94. She racked up 16 All-America honors during that time, which ranks fourth on LSU's all-time list for career All-America accolades.

Bernie Moore Class of 2008

Bernie Moore's accomplishments as LSU's head track and field coach speak for themselves. In 18 seasons from 1930-47, the Tigers captured 12 Southeastern Conference championships during a stretch of 15 years following the league's creation in 1933, as well as the school's first of 31 NCAA team titles during the 1933 season. Moore, who also compiled an 83-39-6 overall record with two SEC crowns in 13 seasons as LSU's head football coach, went on to serve as the SEC commissioner for 18 years from 1948-66.

Esther Jones Class of 2008

No athlete in the combined history of the LSU Track & Field program has been named an All-American more times than the great Esther Jones. With 21 All-America selections during her prolific collegiate career from 1988-91, Jones helped lead the Lady Tigers to six NCAA championships with two indoor and four outdoor crowns during that span. The 1990 NCAA 100-meter and 200-meter champion brought home a gold medal from the 1992 Olympic Games in Barcelona, Spain, where she ran on the title-winning 4x100-meter relay team for the United States.

WORLD'S FASTEST FOOTBALL PLAYER

TRINDON HOLLIDAY

After recording a personal-best time of 10.00 seconds in the NCAA final en route to winning the NCAA 100-meter title in 2009, the case can be made that Trindon Holliday is the fastest football player in the history of the sport at any level. There have been a total of 99 men in history who have run a faster time in the 100-meter dash than Holliday's personal-best wind-legal time of 10.00. It is known who they are, where they are from and when their times were recorded ... and none played the game of football at the time of their achievement. There have been 18 collegiate athletes who have recorded a faster time in the 100 meters than Holliday, but none played college football when they set their wind-legal PRs. The bottom line is that no high school, college or professional football player has ever run faster than Holliday during their football career. With this in mind, it is only fitting that Holliday be referred to as the fastest football player in the history of the sport.

ON THE TRACK

Holliday certainly proved to be one of the nation's most electrifying two-sport athletes with his performance on the football field and the track during his collegiate career at LSU. A seven-time All-American on the track, Holliday cemented his position among the elite sprinters in collegiate track and field in 2009 as he was crowned NCAA champion in the 100-meter dash after crossing the finish line in 10.00 seconds in the event final at the NCAA Division I Outdoor Track & Field Championships. He also finished second and third in the 100-meter final at the NCAA Championships during his career. Not only that, but Holliday anchored the Tigers' 4x100-meter relay to an NCAA championship at the outdoor national meet in 2008 with what was the sixth-fastest time in collegiate history at 38.42. The Zachary native has also competed in the 100 meters at the U.S. Olympic Trials and USA Outdoor Championships during his career.

ON THE GRIDIRON

Holliday's success is not limited to the track as he was one of the nation's elite return specialists on the football field while returning four kicks for touchdowns during his brilliant LSU career from 2006-09. Among his highlights is a 92-yard punt return for a touchdown in a 41-3 win over North Texas on Sept. 13, 2008, before finishing the game with 163 punt return yards, which is the second-most in a single game in the history of the Southeastern Conference. He also returned two kicks for touchdowns against Arkansas, including a 92-yard kickoff return in 2006 and an 87-yard punt return in 2009. In all, Holliday racked up 3,297 all-purpose yards and scored eight touchdowns in four seasons as a member of the LSU football team. He was selected by the Houston Texans in the sixth round of the 2010 NFL Draft. He has also played for the Denver Broncos and Tampa Bay Buccaneers in his five seasons, even returning four kicks for touchdowns for Denver in 2012 and 2013.

Track Stars ON THE GRIDIRON

LSU boasts one of the proudest traditions in all of collegiate athletics with many of its student-athletes enjoying great success competing in both track and field and on the gridiron. In fact, 13 football standouts have earned All-America honors in track and field during their careers at LSU.

Bennie Brazell

Brazell finished his career as the first athlete in the school's storied history to compete on national championship teams in two different sports. He led the men's track team to an outdoor national title in 2002 and an indoor national title in 2004, while also playing wide receiver on LSU's national championship football team in 2003.

Shawn Burks

An All-American performer in the javelin during his four-year career in Baton Rouge, Burks was a dominating middle linebacker for the Tigers under former head coach Bill Arnswanger as he earned a pair of All-SEC selections in 1984 and 1985.

Billy Cannon

Billy Cannon cemented his place in LSU lore as the 1959 Heisman Trophy winner after leading the Tigers to a national championship in 1958. Cannon's most memorable performance came in 1959 against Ole Miss when No. 1 LSU trailed No. 3 Ole Miss, 3-0, in the fourth quarter. He fielded a punt, broke seven tackles and returned it 89 yards for the 7-3 victory. A two-sport star during his career at LSU, Cannon also won an SEC title in the 100-meter dash as a member of the track and field team in 1958.

Xavier Carter

Carter, who came to LSU in 2004 as arguably the No. 1-ranked wide receiver recruit in the country, enjoyed the most prolific two-year career in the history of the men's track and field program with a school-record-tying seven individual national titles and a total of 10 All-America honors.

Chris Cummings

A four-time letterwinner as a starting cornerback for then head coach Gerry DiNardo, Cummings also enjoyed a stellar career on the oval with five career All-America honors and a trio of SEC titles from 1995-98. He doubled as the 100-meter and 200-meter champion at the SEC Outdoor Championships in 1997.

Ricky Jean-Francois

An All-SEC shot putter, Jean-Francois proved to be one of the more dominant defensive linemen in all of college football during his career at LSU from 2006-08. He helped lead the Tigers to a national championship with a 38-24 win over Ohio State in the BCS National Championship Game in New Orleans on Jan. 7, 2008, while being named the game's Defensive MVP with six tackles, one sack and a blocked field goal.

Eddie Kennison

A former first-round draft pick of the St. Louis Rams in the 1996 NFL Draft, Kennison was a six-time All-American and four-time SEC champion on the track as a member of LSU's prolific 4x100 and 4x400-meter relay teams. In fact, he anchored the 4x100 squad to a national title at NCAA Outdoor Championships in 1994.

Jack Torrance

A former world-record holder in the shot put, Torrance was an All-SEC offensive lineman with the Tigers from 1931-33. He earned three All-America honors in the shot put at LSU before representing his country at the infamous 1936 Olympic Games held in Nazi-controlled Berlin, Germany.

2015 Track & Field

The 2015 season marked the anniversary of LSU's historic national championship sweep outdoors in 1990. Members of those teams were honored at the 2015 team banquet held on Oct. 25 last fall.

TEAM AWARDS

& Alumni Recognition Banquet

The LSU Track & Field program held its sixth-annual Team Awards and Alumni Recognition Banquet on the night of Oct. 25 at the Carl Maddox Field House in which 19 student-athletes received awards for their performance in competition, in the classroom and in the community during the 2014-15 athletic season.

The LSU Track & Field Team Awards and Alumni Recognition Banquet has been established to not only recognize the current members of the program for their performance in the past year, but also honor the alumni who have laid the foundation of success still enjoyed by the program today.

Athletes, coaches, administrators, family and alumni were in attendance in celebration of the history and tradition of the premier combined program in all of collegiate track and field.

Awards were presented to members of the program for their outstanding performance during the 2014 cross country, 2015 indoor and 2015 outdoor seasons while leading the Tigers and Lady Tigers in all aspects of the program.

Highlighting the festivities was the 25th anniversary celebration of LSU's NCAA title sweep during the 1990 outdoor season when the Tigers and Lady Tigers defended their titles at the NCAA Outdoor Championships at Duke University that season.

Lady Tiger shot put great Tori Bliss (left) and LSU's NCAA Champion 400-meter runner Vernon Norwood (right) were honored at the 2015 team banquet as the team's Most Outstanding Performers of 2014-15. Norwood took home The Glenn "Slats" Hardin Award for the second year in a row, which is the Most Outstanding Performer award on the men's side, named in honor of the arguably the greatest track and field athlete in team history.

Awards were presented to current members of the team for their outstanding performance during the 2014 cross country, 2015 indoor and 2015 outdoor seasons.

History of the

LSU TRACK & FIELD BANQUET

LSU Track & Field has set aside one weekend to serve as a true celebration of the rich history and tradition of the NCAA's most storied track and field program as the Tigers and Lady Tigers have welcomed alumni back to Baton Rouge as part of the LSU Track & Field Team Awards and Alumni Recognition Banquet. The event has been held in each of the past five years.

The program enjoyed a historic evening on the night of April 16, 2010, when it hosted the inaugural LSU Track & Field Team Awards and Alumni Recognition Banquet with a crowd of more than 500 athletes, coaches, family and alumni in attendance at the Crowne Plaza Baton Rouge. In attendance at the inaugural banquet were more than 100 LSU Track & Field alums representing six decades of the most recognized combined program in all of collegiate track and field.

The event was established to recognize the current members of the LSU Track & Field program for their outstanding performance in competition, in the classroom and in the community, as well as honor the alumni who have laid the foundation of success enjoyed by the program today.

The second-annual team banquet was held on Easter weekend in 2011 as the event again saw a strong alumni representation on a glorious Good Friday at the Pete Maravich Assembly Center. ESPN's Emmy award-winning track and field commentator Larry Rawson was on hand to serve as the Master of Ceremonies of the event that year. The event returned to the PMAC for two more years in 2012 and 2013 before moving over to the Carl Maddox Field House in 2014 and 2015 as the event has now established a tradition all its own.

Office Lobby

The newly-designed lobby in the LSU Track & Field office has been refurbished with custom furniture to provide a comfortable environment in which visitors can lounge while awaiting appointments with members of the LSU coaching staff. The room is complete with a newly-installed high definition TV along the far wall, as well as unique graphic designs illustrating the program's championship tradition.

Track & Field OFFICE

When visiting members of the LSU coaching staff on the third floor of the LSU Athletic Administration Building, guests are sure to be impressed by a new-look office complex following a series of renovations completed during the summer of 2010. With a new receptionist desk in place to greet those visiting the third floor, guests are sure to be amazed by a lavished foyer, hallway and conference room that have been redesigned to serve as a showcase of the championship tradition established by LSU as one of the leading combined athletics programs in the NCAA.

One cannot help but be amazed by the illustrative history that has been created to serve as a living testament to a program that has captured 31 NCAA and 51 SEC championships in its more than 100 years of existence. The LSU Track & Field offices have also been designed in such a way as to immortalize the many athletes and achievements that have helped the program flourish into what it is today.

Championship Tradition

When entering the lobby of the LSU Track & Field office, a visitor's attention will immediately turn toward the dozens of championship trophies encased in protective glass that have been brought home by the Tigers and Lady Tigers from the NCAA Championships over the decades. Guests have the chance to experience LSU's championship tradition first hand in viewing the trophies awarded to the team while winning its 31 national championships all-time.

The Penn Relays

Not only does the waiting room house many of the national championship trophies won by the Tigers and Lady Tigers over the years, but the south wall also features a graphic illustration of LSU's participation in the Penn Relays over the past century. It documents each of LSU's 70 individual and 70 relay winners all-time at the Penn Relays along with their winning performances.

The Timeline

Before walking into the offices of any one of the six coaches currently on staff at LSU, a visitor is sure to be impressed with the timeline that has been designed in the hallway to serve as an illustrative narrative of the proud and storied history of the LSU Track & Field program. From the birth of the program in 1897, to the early exploits of Glenn "Slat" Hardin and the 1933 national championship team, to the improbable streak of 11-straight NCAA Outdoor titles won by the Lady Tigers from 1987-97, to the recent success of such greats as Xavier Carter, Richard Thompson, Trindon Holliday and Kimberlyn Duncan, the most notable accomplishments from each era of the program are documented to serve as a small tribute to the countless athletes and teams that have helped build LSU Track & Field into what it is today.

Wall of Champions

And finally, as guests venture into the conference room within the LSU Track & Field office, they notice a redesigned Wall of Champions along the far wall that recognizes the best of the best to ever wear the LSU uniform. In order for an athlete to be included on LSU's Wall of Champions, he or she must have won at least one SEC title in an individual event and one NCAA title in a relay or individual event during their collegiate career, while also representing their country in competition at the Olympic Games. A total of 32 athletes have earned a spot on LSU's Wall of Champions to date. Included are action photos of each inductee, along with their event participation from the SEC and NCAA Championships and Olympic Games.

Track and Field

OFFICIALS ASSOCIATION

The mission of the LSU Track & Field Officials' Association is to provide track and field officiating expertise for all meets sanctioned by the LSU Track & Field Office. It seeks to provide all manner of support to the LSU Track & Field teams, coaches and staff to achieve and maintain excellence in the sport, and provide financial support to the LSU Track & Field program, provided all expenditures meet LSU and NCAA guidelines. In addition, the LSU Track & Field Officials' Association seeks to promote the sport of track and field within the state of Louisiana and to encourage participation therein by the youth in the state.

An official will be considered an “active” official during any track season in which that official works three or more days at track meets hosted by LSU, including all high school and college meets normally hosted by LSU, as well as irregular meets such as the SEC and NCAA Championships. Anyone working two days or less will be considered “inactive” for a given year.

Service awards are presented based on “active” years as a member of the LSU Track & Field Officials' Association and include 5-year and 10-year pins, 15-year and 20-year plaques and a 30-year watch. Hall of Fame eligibility is granted following 10 years of service as an “active” official.

"It's so fulfilling and humbling to be able to serve our community. I love spending time giving back because of the many people in my past that have volunteered their time to help coach, teach or help me out in any way. It's such a great opportunity to connect with a community that supports LSU so much."

- Tori Bliss
LSU All-American

Our Lady of the Lake Children's Hospital

Members of the LSU Track & Field program are frequent visitors to Our Lady of the Lake Children's Hospital throughout the year as they spend time with the kids, playing games and putting smiles on their faces through their treatments. The Tiger and Lady Tiger throws groups were among the program's most recent visitors in the fall of 2014.

Community OUTREACH

LSU student-athletes participate in a variety of community service projects including reading in schools, nursing home visits, hospital pediatric ward visits and speaking engagements.

LSU's Read Across America

All-American hurdler Joshua Thompson (pictured), a senior in 2015, is among those LSU student-athletes who have served as part of the annual "Read Across America" event in recent years. LSU's student-athletes read to students attending the annual event held in conjunction with the Louisiana Association of Education at the Mall of Louisiana in Baton Rouge.

LSU Move-In Day

Each August, student-athletes help the incoming freshmen students move into their dorm rooms ahead of the start of the fall semester on LSU Move-In Day. In 2015, members of the track and field program continued the tradition with their fellow student-athletes as they braved heavy rains in the Baton Rouge area to help the freshmen move in once again. Athletes spent as much as three hours helping the new freshmen feel at home at LSU.

Halloween BOOzar

The annual Halloween BOOzar is among the signature community service events hosted by LSU's student-athletes each year. The track and field teams participate in the event each year to provide kids with an opportunity to spend their Halloween with their favorite teams and athletes. As part of the event, team members play games, hand out candy and sign autographs to the kids in attendance.

LSU Track & Field, Habitat for Humanity are a Winning Team

The LSU Track & Field program has teamed with the Baton Rouge chapter of Habitat for Humanity on multiple building projects in North Baton Rouge and the nearby community of St. Gabriel in recent years. It is a partnership that has helped transform the lives of many families within the Baton Rouge community and is sure to continue.

Members of the track and field team have joined the gymnastics, soccer and swimming and diving programs in building projects throughout the year, including a recent build on Chinn Street in North Baton Rouge, working for seven hours on such tasks as caulking, priming, painting and other interior and exterior work to prepare a site for more extensive building.

The jumps group recently traveled to St. Gabriel to assist Habitat for Humanity in turning a bare slab into a fully-framed home for one local resident.

Members of the middle distance and distance groups also returned to North Baton Rouge a year ago to assist in the building of a home for the Pooler family, including much needed caulking and painting of interior and exterior walls of the home.

LSU Athletes Talk Habitat for Humanity

"Not only do these projects offer a way for the LSU student-athletes to give back (to the community), but they also help to enhance the relationship between the Baton Rouge community and LSU."

Kyle Rose
Former LSU Pole Vaulter

"Habitat for Humanity is really doing great things in the community here in Baton Rouge, and I think it is great to be a part of the volunteer labor force that makes building these houses possible. We are all honored to work with Habitat."

Lauren Saucier
Former LSU Pole Vaulter

"This year, we have really embraced community service as a team. These building projects are definitely my favorite. Habitat for Humanity is a great organization that we are proud to work with."

Tim Landry
Former LSU Distance Runner

University Medal

Three members of the LSU Track & Field program have received the University Medal as part of commencement ceremonies since 2008, recognizing students with the highest grade-point average in their graduating class. Lady Tiger distance standout Laura Carleton (pictured) is the latest to receive the University Medal after graduating with her degree in management with a perfect 4.0 cumulative GPA. Carleton, the 2013 SEC Indoor 5k champion, also graduated in May 2013 with her Master of Business Administration while posting a 3.96 GPA in two years of graduate work.

Academic SUCCESS

CRITICAL TO THE DEVELOPMENT OF A STUDENT-ATHLETE IS AN ADEQUATE ACADEMIC FACILITY AND CAPABLE STAFF TO FURTHER THE ATHLETE'S PROGRESS. The Cox Communications Academic Center for Student-Athletes is responsible for overseeing the educational development and progress toward graduation for all student-athletes. The staff acts as a liaison between the student-athlete and the academic communities and insures that student-athletes comply with academic rules established by the University, Southeastern Conference and NCAA. The staff also coordinates academic programs designed to assist student-athletes in acquiring a quality education.

"There is no better environment for a student-athlete to compete at the highest level of our sport while receiving a world-class education than we have here at LSU. We provide our young men and women with the support they need to work toward their degree and the tools to then go out and flourish in the career path they choose."

- LSU head coach Dennis Shaver

Anna Lyons enjoyed an outstanding four-year career with the Lady Tigers as one of the elite javelin throwers in the Southeastern Conference. On Aug. 7, 2009, Lyons was honored as a University Medal recipient during commencement exercises after maintaining a perfect 4.0 cumulative GPA and graduating from LSU with a degree in kinesiology.

Like Lyons, former Lady Tiger middle distance runner Lindsay Day was also a recipient of the University Medal during commencement exercises in December of 2008 when she graduated with her degree in kinesiology. Day, who was also named the LSU Female Scholar-Athlete of the Year by the Tiger Athletic Foundation, graduated with a perfect 4.0 cumulative GPA.

2015 SEC Academic Honor Roll

The LSU Track & Field team led all campus sports in 2015 by having 34 of its student-athletes named to the SEC Academic Honor Roll for their outstanding work in the classroom. In 11 seasons under Dennis Shaver, LSU Track & Field has had 344 selections to the SEC Academic Honor Roll. To earn honor roll honors, a student-athlete must have a grade-point average of 3.0 or above for either the preceding academic year or have a cumulative GPA of 3.0 or above for their collegiate career.

Champions Day

AT THE WHITE HOUSE

President Bush congratulates LaTavia Thomas and Kelly Baptiste on the stage following his address to the team.

President George W. Bush welcomed the national champion LSU women's track and field team to the White House for Champions Day on Nov. 12, 2008, in honor of its victory at the 2008 NCAA Outdoor Track & Field Championships in Des Moines, Iowa.

The trip marked the first time since 2002 that LSU Track & Field made the distinguished trip to the nation's capital after winning its 25th NCAA title in the program's storied history. The teams have now combined for a total of 31 team titles at the NCAA Championships as the Tigers have won six of their own.

"It's a tremendous honor for our team to have been invited to the White House, and this is a time that I'm sure our athletes will always remember," said LSU head coach Dennis Shaver. "I'm proud of both of our teams for what they were able to accomplish. To be honored by the President with his hospitality is a great reward for their hard work."

Among the Lady Tigers who made the trip to the White House were those who represented LSU at the NCAA Outdoor Championships, which included 15 student-athletes in all.

Those being honored by President Bush during the festivities were Kelly Baptiste, Angel Boyd, Juanita Broadus, Nedra Gross, Brittany Hall, Samantha Henry, Deonna Lawrence, Andrea Linton, Brooklynn Morris, Jessica Ohanaja, Katelyn Rodrigue, LaTavia Thomas, Kayann Thompson, Kenyanna Wilson and Nickiesha Wilson.

During the ceremony, Baptiste and Thomas presented President Bush with a wooden box that had the LSU logo and the phrase "NCAA Track & Field National Champions 2008" laser inscribed on the front, as well as "George W. Bush" and "President of the United States of America" on the inside of the top. The box contained a leather jacket specific to the LSU Track & Field team. President Bush was also presented with a purple and gold national championship baton signed by each member of the team who made the trip to the White House.

Not only was the Lady Tigers' victory at the 2008 NCAA Outdoor Championships the 25th team title in program history, but it was also the first national championship for eight seniors who were wearing the LSU uniform for the last time. LSU ended a five-year drought with its first title since winning the team championship at the 2004 NCAA Indoor Championships.

The 25 national championships won by the LSU women's track and field team is more than any other women's program in the history of collegiate athletics.

Home OF THE CHAMPIONS

The heart of any track and field program lies in its facility. LSU is fortunate enough to own one of the finest track facilities in America and the world in the Bernie Moore Track Stadium.

The Tigers and Lady Tigers hosted the 2012 SEC Outdoor Track & Field Championships.

The stadium was named in 1971 after legendary head coach Bernie Moore, who guided the LSU Track & Field program for 18 years (1930-47) and led the Tigers to their first NCAA Championship in 1933, as well as 12 SEC crowns during his tenure.

The Bernie Moore Track Stadium underwent an extensive $5 million renovation in 2010 and 2011, which included a complete resurfacing of the track, restructuring of the infield and redesign of the throws field to give the LSU teams one of the finest facilities in the country in which to compete.

The track was resurfaced with Mondo FTX, which is the same surface used in the 2008 Olympic Games held in Beijing, China. In addition to the 400-meter oval, the infield also features a sprints and hurdles straightaway, each with nine lanes with 48 inches in width.

The field event areas include two dual directional horizontal jump runways, four dual directional pole vault runways, two shot put areas with a total of six throws circles and one multi-purpose high jump area capable of having three high jump competitions at once.

In addition, located at the South end of the stadium are two javelin runways and two hammer and discus cages worthy of hosting competition for the nation's premier throwers.

In 1969, prior to its naming after Moore, the stadium was laid with a tartan surface making it one of a select few all-weather tracks in the United States and a perfect host site for many of the track world's elite events. A sampling of these prestigious competitions include the NCAA Championships in 1973 and 1981, the 1982 TAC National Decathlon Championships, the 1982 Decathlon Dual Meet with West Germany, the 1984 SEC Championships and the 1984 TAC National Junior Olympics.

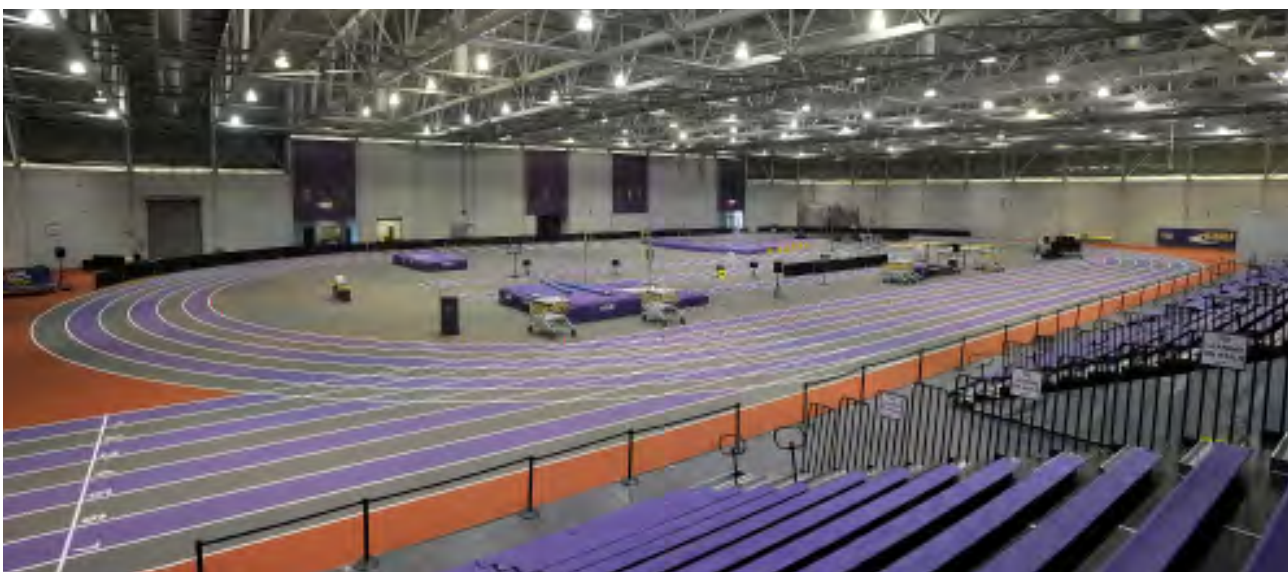

Further renovations were completed at the Bernie Moore Track Stadium in 1987, as $1.3 million was spent to lay the nine-lane, 400-meter oval track with Rekotran in time for the NCAA Outdoor Championships. In addition, the nine-lane infield straightaway – the first of its kind in the world – was installed. The facility's improvements and new benefits were seen immediately as 12 NCAA meet records and three collegiate records were set at the national meet that year.

With the reputation as one of the finest track facilities in the country firmly intact, the Bernie Moore Track Stadium went on to serve as host for several more prestigious track and field events, including the 1993 National Senior Olympics and the 1993 USATF National Junior Olympics.

In order to keep up with the advancements of the sport, the Bernie Moore Track Stadium once again underwent massive renovations in 1999. That year, a brand new nine-lane 400-meter oval track was laid by Martin Surfacing, the makers of the 1984 Los Angeles Olympic track. In addition, the stadium's signature nine-lane infield sprint straightaway was also resurfaced.

And with its latest round of renovations completed in early 2011, the Bernie Moore Track Stadium has continued in its tradition of excellence as a perfect site for competition. Most recently, LSU played host to the 2002 NCAA Outdoor Championships, 2004 NCAA Mideast Regional Championships and 2012 SEC Outdoor Championships.

Carl Maddox Field House

The Carl Maddox Field House underwent an extensive renovation project that was completed in February 2014, transforming the indoor home of the Tigers and Lady Tigers. The newly-renovated facility features brand new locker rooms for both teams and a team meeting room featuring multimedia capabilities. The competition area features the same Mondo track surface as the Bernie Moore Track Stadium outdoors, as well as two long jump/triple jump runways, a new pole vault runway and new throwing circles. Fans also enjoy the inclusion of permanent bleacher seating and new concession stands now in the Carl Maddox Field House for a comfortable viewing experience.

Locker ROOMS

Each LSU Track & Field athlete is able to prepare for training or meet day in style with separate locker room facilities for both the Tigers and Lady Tigers. Both locker rooms are fully-equipped with flatscreen televisions installed along the walls and satellite TV for athletes to enjoy as they prepare themselves to compete.

Team Showers

Separate shower facilities have also been provided for both the men's and women's teams as part of the renovation project to the Carl Maddox Field House. Athletes can feel refreshed as they go to class if needing to shower after practice or as they head home after a successful meet day.

Assigned Lockers

LSU's locker rooms are each furnished with 46 full-sized lockers that are individually named for the athletes to which they have been assigned. Athletes have the peace of mind knowing their own personal belongings are secure before, during or after training and competition.

Meeting ROOM

Opened in the spring of 2015, LSU Track & Field's brand new meeting room in the Carl Maddox Field House is the perfect setting for head coach Dennis Shaver and his fellow coaches to address their athletes. Whether going over training and meet schedules, breaking down competition video or meeting ahead of their next road trip, the team meeting room allows coaches and athletes to always stay on the same page.

Podium

Coach Shaver has full view of his athletes as he talks training, trips or breaks down competition video for them using state-of-the-art multimedia on multiple flatscreen TVs installed around the room.

Video Analysis

The team meeting room in the Carl Maddox Field House is fully-equipped with video analysis technology so that the Tigers and Lady Tigers can analyze their performances over the course of a season. Video is stored on remote servers and can be accessed by athlete name, meet name or season.

Bo Campbell Auditorium

The 1,000-seat auditorium is used through the year as a classroom and lecture hall. Each seat in the auditorium has space for a laptop and a modem hookup, providing each student unlimited learning opportunities. The auditorium also contains a movie theatre size screen to aid professors with lectures and classroom activities.

Computer Stations

The Cox Communications Academic Center for Student-Athletes is at the forefront of today's educational technology. Since the spring of 2009, the academic center has upgraded to more than 170 computer stations, including both PC and Mac.

The Library

The library provides a perfect setting for individual study, or with a tutor as a group.

Media Training

LSU is one of the few schools where student-athletes go through media training to enhance their communication skills. Dr. Tommy Karam and Dr. Melissa Thompson are two experts in the field who give training sessions to student-athletes here on campus. The Academic Center features a mock press conference setting to get student-athletes acclimated to giving interviews in front of both print and electronic media. Karam and Thompson record the mock interviews on camera and then provide feedback, allowing student-athletes to become more comfortable and confident when doing actual interviews.

Academic Center

A $15 million renovation to the Gym Armory in 2002 not only made it among the nation's premier academic centers, but put it at the forefront. Improvements to the existing center give LSU student-athletes the best opportunity for success by providing access to the latest technology, as well as an array of expanded services.

Athletic TRAINING

LSU boasts the largest and most complete athletic training facilities in all of collegiate athletics with both the Football Operations Center and the Broussard Center for Athletic Training in Tiger Stadium. Both are furnished with the latest in technology and equipment. The Operations Center training room features a full view of the practice fields, two hot/cold jacuzzis and an underwater treadmill. The Broussard Center includes an on-site x-ray room, an in-house pharmacy, as well as the largest hydrotherapy pool in both collegiate and professional sports and is one of the few collegiate training centers with a full-service pharmacy and a full-service vision center.

Hydrotherapy Treatment

An integral part of rehabbing and developing LSU student-athletes is the operations center's hot/cold jacuzzis and an underwater treadmill in a fully equipped Hydrotherapy room. The Broussard training center boasts the largest hydrotherapy pool in both collegiate and professional sports.

Broussard Athletic TRAINING CENTER

The two-story, 22,000-square-foot facility contains 20 treatment tables with the newest forms of modalities available, 14 taping stations, a 1,600-square-foot rehabilitation area which contains the latest rehabilitation equipment including the Cybex Norm, Woodway treadmills and Body Master select rise equipment. LSU's multi-million dollar athletic training facility is named in honor of Dr. Martin J. Broussard (left), the legendary trainer whose career spanned over 40 years at LSU.

Road To Recovery

LSU is one of the top schools in the nation in getting its student-athletes back on the track in a timely manner following an injury. The training staff takes a progressive approach to injury identification and thinks "out of the box." LSU consults with allied health professionals and uses state-of-the-art surgical procedures that give an athlete a quicker recovery time while looking out for his or her future.

Rehabilitation

LSU's Broussard Center for Athletic Training boasts some of the most technologically advanced equipment to aid the recuperation and rehabilitation of LSU's student-athletes.

Real-Time X-Rays

A new state-of-the-art fluoroscope was added in the summer of 2008 that will provide LSU trainers the opportunity to take x-rays on site in the Operations Center. The machine can provide real-time images of the internal structures of a patient.

"The training staff at LSU does an outstanding job of getting the athletes ready to compete at the highest level of collegiate track and field. I was able to compete at the NCAA Championships each year I was here, and I owe it all to the work of our training staff in keeping me in top shape throughout my career. The relationship I shared with our trainers was an important part of my success at LSU."

Joe Alleva

LSU Vice Chancellor/Director of Athletics

Joe Alleva continues to bring unprecedented national recognition to LSU as Vice Chancellor and Director of Athletics. Under Alleva's leadership, LSU enjoys one of the country's premier athletics programs with success on and off the field of competition. Now in his sixth year at LSU, Alleva is dedicated to athletic and academic excellence, and is committed to providing the opportunities and the resources necessary for student-athletes to excel in competition, in the classroom and in the community. Alleva joined the LSU family on April 4, 2008 after a highly successful tenure as director of athletics at Duke University for 10 years. Alleva's role at LSU was further expanded in August of 2009 when vice chancellor was added to his title by the LSU Board of Supervisors. It is the first time in school history that the director of athletics has also held a vice chancellor position.

Alleva is currently serving a five-year term on the prestigious NCAA Men's Basketball Committee, reinforcing his position as one of the most respected athletic administrators in the country.

Upon his arrival at LSU, Alleva unveiled a strategic master plan for the LSU athletics program – "LSU: Thru and True" – to ensure the advancement and future of LSU Athletics as an exemplary program. The central mission of the plan is to create an environment for student-athletes to reach their ultimate potential, prepare them to be champions in life and to set out goals and values for the entire athletics program.

Alleva's vision will keep LSU among the nation's leaders in athletic facilities. He launched an aggressive fund-raising campaign to replace several hundred windows in Tiger Stadium that were in disrepair, and a new coating to the facade of the structure has given the old stadium new life. A renovated gating system on the west side of the stadium debuted in the fall of 2012 to include a plaza that celebrates LSU's football national championships and recognition walls that honor Tiger All-Americans. A new plaza opened on the north end of the stadium in the fall of 2013, further enriching the experience of visitors to the LSU campus.

A new lighting system was installed prior to last season that turns the upper archways of the north end of the stadium purple and gold and lights the iconic "LSU" on the stadium's north scoreboard. In addition, "Tiger Stadium" in 10-foot tall illuminated letters sits just below the west upper deck facing Nicholson Drive.

Also in the fall of 2012, LSU began construction on an expansion of the South End Zone of the stadium – a project that will add premium seating, general public seating and two state-of-the-art video boards – continuing an effort to augment one of the most iconic venues in all of college sports. The project will be completed in time for the start of the 2014 football season.

Under Alleva's direction, LSU's world-renowned track and field program received a state-of-the-art running surface in 2010 when a new track was installed in Bernie Moore Stadium and extensive renovations to the Tiger soccer facility were completed in the fall of 2011.

Alleva directed a major renovation to the University Club golf course that was completed in September 2010 and allows the LSU men's and women's golf teams to compete on one of the most challenging courses in the country. The renovated course helped prepare Tiger golfers John Peterson and Austin Ernst, respectively, to win 2011 NCAA men's and women's individual championships, marking the first time both titles were claimed by players from the same school. The LSU men's team in 2013 played host to an NCAA Regional for the first time in the school's illustrious golf history.

Future plans include a new gymnastics practice facility, a new tennis complex featuring indoor and outdoor courts, and a state-of-the-art Nutrition Center for Student-Athletes, a facility that will house full-time chefs and nutritionists and provide the best dietary selections for all Fighting Tiger competitors.

LSU's prominence was evident in the final 2012-13 Learfield Sports Director's Cup standings that recognize the nation's best athletic programs, as the Tigers finished in the Top 20 for the eighth consecutive year.

The year was highlighted by another 10-win season and bowl appearance for the Fighting Tiger football team, which recorded a double-digit victory total for the sixth time in eight years. The men's basketball program was rejuvenated by first-year coach Johnny Jones, who directed the Tigers to a 19-12 mark while placing LSU back into consideration for a postseason berth. Women's basketball continued its rise under second-year coach Nikki Caldwell, who guided the Lady Tigers to LSU's first Sweet 16 berth in five years.

The 2013 Fighting Tiger baseball team established a school record for victories with 57 and earned the school's 16th College World Series appearance while capturing SEC Western Division and SEC Tournament titles. The softball squad won the SEC West and played host to an NCAA Regional in Tiger Park before record crowds. The LSU gymnastics team reached the prestigious Super Six for the third time in six seasons, and the women's track team, led by Bowerman Award winner and national sprint champion Kimberlyn Duncan, placed fourth in the final NCAA outdoor standings.

But the 2012-13 year was about more than just athletic success. Living up to Alleva's mantra of "competition, classroom, community," LSU student-athletes logged more than 4,475 hours in community service work across 20 sports through LSU's Geaux Givers program. And a total of 89 proud Tigers received their degrees from the university during LSU commencement ceremonies in December and May.

The Tigers in 2011-12 finished fourth in both the men's and women's Capital One Cup competition that identifies athletic excellence. LSU was one of only two schools in the country – and the only one in the SEC – to rank in the top four in both categories.

Eighteen of the Tigers' 20 varsity sports participated in NCAA postseason competition in 2011-12. The year was highlighted by the football team's undefeated regular season, an SEC championship and an appearance in the BCS National Championship Game. The Lady Tiger track and field team captured the SEC championship while the LSU softball squad advanced to the Women's College World Series. The Fighting Tiger baseball team won the 2012 SEC championship, and LSU led the nation in attendance for the 17th straight season. The 2011-12 season marked the first time in school history that LSU won both the SEC title in both football and baseball in the same athletic year.

Outstanding performances of the 2010-11 athletic season included the exploits of the Fighting Tiger football squad that posted an 11-2 mark – including a Cotton Bowl victory – and finished the season ranked No. 8 in the nation. The year also featured Top 5 national finishes both indoors and outdoors by the men's and women's track and field teams.

In 2008-09, all 20 LSU sports competed in NCAA postseason play for the first time in school history and the Tiger baseball team won the national championship. LSU ranked second among Southeastern Conference teams in the Learfield Director's Cup All-Sports standings and finished in the Top 20 for the sixth year in a row.

With a strong commitment to academics, Alleva ensures that the Cox Communications Academic Center for Student-Athletes is a first-class facility that provides student-athletes the resources necessary for success in the classroom and personal development. The facility was recently enhanced by the addition of a media training center that gives student-athletes valuable assistance in improving their communications skills.

And with a strong emphasis on community service and outreach programs, the implementation under Alleva's direction of the "Geaux Givers" program fosters a relationship between the local community and LSU student-athletes, who regularly participate in philanthropic events. In addition, Alleva has bolstered the department's L-Club program to reach out and connect with former student-athletes.

Alleva oversees a staff of outstanding coaches and he has made critical additions to LSU's coaching staff in recent years. He hired former LSU guard Johnny Jones in April 2012 to breathe new life and enthusiasm into the men's basketball program and last year added Julia Sell as the new women's tennis coach. In 2011, he lured the dynamic Nikki Caldwell to LSU to coach the Lady Tiger basketball team and then hired Beth Torina to direct the Tiger softball program, both of whom immediately returned their respective programs to NCAA postseason success.

Alleva is an innovator with bold ideas that benefit not only LSU but all of Greater Baton Rouge. He has been instrumental in the planning of the Bayou Country Superfest, a three-day country music concert and festival held in Tiger Stadium each spring. The event attracts nearly 100,000 visitors to the LSU campus and makes a tremendous economic impact upon the local community.

Alleva has served on numerous national committees throughout his career including the Football Bowl Certification Committee, the NCAA Division I Championships/Competition Cabinet and several Southeastern Conference and Atlantic Coast Conference committees.

He became director of athletics at Duke in 1998 and his impressive tenure there propelled the university into the ranks of America's top all-around collegiate programs. Among his outstanding list of accomplishments includes the greatest 10-year period in Duke Athletics, winning more ACC and NCAA championships than in any other decade in school history.

Alleva, whose hometown is Suffern, N.Y., majored in Finance at Lehigh University and received his bachelor's degree in 1975. While at Lehigh, Alleva was the quarterback of the football team and team captain in 1974. Alleva also played on the Lehigh baseball team. He served as a graduate assistant football coach and earned an MBA in 1976.

While at Duke, Alleva played a key role in Durham's community sports scene. He started Little League Baseball in Durham over 20 years ago, and also began the American Legion baseball program.

He is a member of the North Carolina American Legion Hall of Fame, Suffern High School Hall of Fame and the Rockland County Hall of Fame.

Alleva and his wife, Annie, have three children, J.D., Jeff, and Jenny. Joe and Annie recently welcomed their first grandchild, Harper, the daughter of Jenny and husband Kyle Young.

2016 Men's Season Preview

Jordan Moore

Reloaded

TIGERS RELOAD FOR A RETURN TO THE TOP IN 2015

The Tigers earned a pair of top-10 team finishes at the NCAA Championships during the 2015 season as they followed a tie for seventh place indoors by winning their second-straight fourth-place team trophy outdoors at Oregon's Hayward Field last June. Leading the way were nine All-Americans in such event areas as the sprints, hurdles, relays and throws as the Tigers again earned their place among the top teams in collegiate track and field once again.

They will follow a similar formula for success again in 2016 as they return five All-Americans to this year's squad to help power a national championship run this spring. Led by returning All-Americans Tremayne Acy, Fitzroy Dunkley, Cyril Grayson, Nethaneel Mitchell-Blake and Jordan Moore along with their powerful relay teams as NCAA title contenders and a heralded recruiting class, the pieces are in place for the Tigers to contend for their first national championship since the 2004 season.

Sprints/Relays

The 2015 season proved to be a banner season for LSU's sprinters as World Champion Vernon Norwood made history with an NCAA-title sweep in the men's 400-meter dash and the Tigers' 4x400-meter relay team raced to the NCAA Outdoor crown to wrap up the fourth-place team trophy for the program at the NCAA Championships in Eugene.

Also led by All-American performances by Tremayne Acy and Aaron Ernest in the 200-meter dash and a bronze-medal-winning third-place finish in the 4x100-meter relay, the Tigers scored their 14th top-five team finish at the NCAA Championships in the past 16 seasons and their 17th top-four trophy finish in history.

There is no doubt that the foundation of the LSU Track & Field program has been built on its success in the sprints and relays throughout its history as the Tigers feature one of the NCAA's more talented rosters year in and year out in their quest for a national championship.

While the Tigers must replace the likes of Norwood and Ernest from a senior-laden squad a year ago, Acy returns alongside an outstanding recruiting class that is sure to pace the Tigers once again in 2016. Acy gives LSU a solid block to build around after emerging as one of the NCAA's top sprint talents during a breakout sophomore season in 2015.

After finishing in 12th place overall in the 200-meter semifinals in his debut at the NCAA Indoor Championships, Acy took it a step further and earned a lane in his first national final at Oregon's Hayward Field last June as he sprinted to a career-best wind-aided time of 20.04w for an All-American fourth-place finish at the NCAA Outdoor Championships. The reigning SEC Outdoor Bronze Medalist advanced to the NCAA's 200-meter final after racing to a personal-best wind-legal time of 20.17 (+1.8) in the semifinal round to rank third on LSU's all-time list in the event.

A native of Dallas, Texas, and product of DeSoto High School, Acy is the lone member of LSU's bronze-medal-winning 4x100-meter relay team returning from last season as he teamed with a trio of senior leaders in the likes of Norwood, Ernest and hurdle All-American Joshua Thompson to run a seasonal-best time of 38.62 in the sprint relay final at the NCAA Championships.

Among those looking to help fill the void in the sprint relay pool are two returning standouts in junior All-American Nethaneel Mitchell-Blake and junior sprint hurdler Jordan Moore. LSU's heralded 2015 recruiting class will be called upon to fill out the sprint relay pool with the likes of junior college transfer Renard Howell from South Plains College and Oral Roberts transfer Tinashe Mutanga likely to contend for a spot in the lineup. Howell (10.67/20.46w/20.62) won the junior college national title in the 200 meters a year ago, while Mutanga (10.41w/20.99) also joined the team in the fall.

Norwood is not the only member of LSU's national champion 4x400-meter relay team that must be replaced as nine-time All-American Quincy Downing leaves a void in the leadoff spot that must also be filled.

LSU does return its second and third legs from its NCAA-title-winning team as Fitzroy Dunkley and Cyril Grayson both return for their senior seasons with the Tigers in 2016 as they eye a defense of their crown.

Dunkley was outstanding in his first full season competing in the 400 meters a year ago when he ran a personal best of 45.78 en route to an appearance in the national quarterfinals at the NCAA East Preliminary Rounds in 2015. Grayson, who owns a personal best of 46.23 in the open 400, has been a staple in LSU's 4x400-meter relay lineup throughout his collegiate career while earning five All-America honors in six NCAA Championship appearances since 2013.

The Tigers are sure to benefit from the addition of two All-American transfers to give them one of the NCAA's leading mile relay teams yet again this season as former Florida State star Michael Cherry and former Ohio State standout LaMar Bruton will wear the purple and gold for the first time during the 2016 season.

While the Tigers cruised to the NCAA title in the event last June, Bruton ran on Ohio State's relay team that also earned All-America honors with a fourth-place finish nationally in the 4x400 relay to end the NCAA men's competition. Bruton was a three-time NCAA semifinalist in the 400 meters with the Buckeyes while clocking a lifetime PR of 45.67 as a

Last season's ACC Outdoor Champion in the 400-meter dash, Cherry arrives in Baton Rouge as one of the top quartermilers returning to the NCAA ranks this season after sprinting to a personal best of 45.37 for his final season with the Seminoles. A former All-American in his own right in the 4x400 relay, Cherry also lined up in the NCAA semifinals in the open 400 meters before electing to transfer to LSU.

Hurdles

LSU's head coach Dennis Shaver has earned a reputation as being one of the elite hurdle coaches in the sport of track and field with the performance of his athletes over the years, and the Tigers show no signs of slowing down in 2016 with an NCAA title contender returning to the squad in the form of sprint hurdler Jordan Moore.

Moore was part of one of the NCAA's deepest stables of hurdlers a year ago when he teamed with former All-Americans Quincy Downing and Joshua Thompson in helping guide the Tigers to a fourth-place team finish at the NCAA Division I Outdoor Track & Field Championships held at Oregon's Hayward Field last June.

Moore emerged as an All-America contender in his first season with the Tigers when he clocked the fourth-fastest wind-legal time in the NCAA during the 2016 season with a personal-best time of 13.47 in the final of the 110-meter hurdles at the SEC Outdoor Championships.

That performance vaulted the former TCU Horned Frog into the No. 2 spot in LSU's all-time rankings in the event and close to Barrett Nugent's 4-year-old school record of 13.32 set as a senior in 2012.

The reigning All-SEC performer and SEC Outdoor Bronze Medalist will no doubt have his sights set on Nugent's school record and his first career All-America honor as he returns for his junior season as the third-fastest collegian rejoining the collegiate ranks from a season ago. Moore just missed earning a spot in his first NCAA final a year ago when his wind-aided run of 13.57 was ninth in the NCAA semifinal.

Moore's debut season with the Tigers in 2015 was also highlighted by a gold-medal-winning performance in the 110-meter hurdles at the 121st Penn Relay Carnival when he recorded a winning 13.84 (-1.9) in the final to join Nugent as the only LSU Tigers to be crowned the Penn Relays Champion in the event in the program's illustrious history.

A native of Atlanta, Georgia, Moore also heads into his junior season in 2016 as an All-American contender indoors with a personal-best time of 7.70 in the 60-meter hurdles to his name that he had during his freshman season at TCU two years ago in 2014. His seasonal-best of 7.80 from the 2015 season ranks him No. 6 on LSU's all-time indoor performance list in the 60 hurdles.

Moore will look to continue LSU's tradition of excellence at the NCAA Championships after the program graduated two All-Americans a year ago when Downing and Thompson lined up for the final time in Eugene.

Also returning with Moore as a member of LSU's hurdles squad in 2016 is senior Shreveport native Morgan Wells, who has clocked a lifetime best of 54.48 in the 400-meter hurdles during his collegiate career.

Middle Distance/Distance

The Tigers took a big step forward in their performance in the middle distance and distance events a year ago under the direction of assistant coach Khadevis Robinson as Julian Parker was crowned the SEC Outdoor Champion in the 800 meters while being joined at the NCAA Championships by teammate Blair Henderson.

Henderson showed tremendous progress from his freshman season to his sophomore season under Robinson's leadership while advancing to the NCAA quarterfinals for the first time in the two-lap race.

A native of Lake Charles, Louisiana, Henderson nearly matched Parker with a seasonal-best and personal-best time of 1:47.03 that he ran in a third-place finish at the LSU Invitational in the squad's regular-season finale to become the seventh-fastest 800-meter runner in the team's illustrious history. He also clocked 1:47.91 to win the 800-meter title at LSU's Battle on the Bayou in his outdoor opener in 2015.

Henderson hopes to contend for All-America honors for the first time in his collegiate career in 2016 as he returns for his junior season as the team's leading middle distance runner back in the squad. He is also a strong 1,500-meter runner with a lifetime best of 3:48.52 that he set a year ago at the LSU Alumni Gold meet last April.

Robinson has recruited some outstanding depth in the middle distance and distance events in his two seasons with coaching LSU's runners as Bossier City native Jack Wilkes enjoyed a strong debut season at LSU a year ago when he clocked personal bests of 1:50.86 indoors and 1:50.66 outdoors in the 800 meters, 3:54.50 in the 1,500 meters and 4:14.73 in the mile as a true freshman.

Christian Johnson returns alongside Wilkes for his sophomore season following a freshman campaign in 2015 in which he posted personal bests of 3:53.44 in the 1,500 meters and 9:20.38 in the steeplechase. During this fall's cross country season, Johnson was recognized as a First-Team All-Louisiana cross country runner by the Louisiana Sports Writers Association.

The future of LSU's middle distance and distance group appears very bright after Las Vegas, Nevada, native and Centennial High School product Dajour Braxton signed his National Letter of Intent with the Tigers as part of the program's 2015 recruiting class. Braxton was a three-time Nevada Division I state champion and four-time AAU Junior Olympics medalist during his high school career while signing with the Tigers with PRs of 1:53.31 in the 800 meters, 3:54.52 in the 1,500 meters and 4:07.79 in the mile.

Jumps

LSU's jumpers are looking to bounce back from a 2015 season in which the group was plagued by injuries when the likes of two-time NCAA Championship qualifier Jonathan Pitt missed much of the indoor season and in-state recruit Da'Quan Ballard was forced to redshirt outdoors while battling a season-ending injury.

Despite only competing in two meets during his sophomore season indoors a year ago, Pitt bounced back to qualify for the triple jump field at the NCAA East Preliminary Rounds for the second-straight season after he jumped a career-best wind-aided mark of 50 feet, 10 inches (+2.3) at the LSU Alumni Gold last April.

And when stepping onto the runway at North Florida's Hodges Stadium in Jacksonville, Pitt soared to a wind-legal PR of 50-8 ¾ (+0.9) to earn a career-best 16th-place finish at the NCAA East Preliminary Rounds.

A native of South Brunswick Township, New Jersey, and product of South Brunswick High School, Pitt nearly scored for the Tigers at the SEC Championships for the first time in his career when he jumped a windy mark of 50-6 ¾ (+3.0) for a 12th-place finish in qualifying to kick off the championship season. He eclipsed the 50-foot mark in the triple jump a total of five times during his sophomore season in 2015.

Pitt was recently crowned this year's LSU Team Pentathlon men's champion as the top overall athlete in the testing competition held during Thanksgiving as he raised his score by more than 60 points from a year ago.

After signing with the Tigers as the top jumps prospect in the state of Louisiana during his high school career at Opelousas High School, Ballard saw his freshman season cut short due to injury while competing in a total of seven meets in his rookie season in the program. He will look to build upon his prep performance when he set personal bests of 24-3 in the long jump and 49-6 in the triple jump while at Opelousas High School.

The Tigers also feature a trio of 16-foot pole vaulters on the roster in 2016 as junior Cameron Robichaux, sophomore Jonathan Nelsen and freshman Chadd Burns will look to earn a spot in the scoring positions while on the runway at the SEC Championships this season. Robichaux leads the group with lifetime best clearances of 16-6 ¾ indoors and 16-3 ¾ outdoors during his collegiate career. The Mandeville native nearly scored for his team at the SEC Championships for the first time last season when he tied for ninth place in the pole vault at the SEC Outdoor Championships.

Nelsen, who also hails from Mandeville, Louisiana, has cleared a lifetime best of 16-1 ¾ in the event, while Burns will make his collegiate debut in 2016 with a personal-best clearance of 16-3 set during his prep career at nearby Catholic High School in Baton Rouge.

Throws

LSU's throws group has been instrumental in the Tigers' success in recent years with record-setting and All-American discus thrower Rodney Brown and perennial SEC scorer and NCAA Championship qualifier Jeremy Tuttle piling up the points for the team in the championship meets at the conference and national level.

Brown, a two-time SEC Champion and former All-American in his time with the Tigers, closed out his career in 2015 as LSU's school-record holder in the discus throw with a lifetime best of 213-5 last spring in a meet-record-setting performance at the 121st Penn Relay Carnival. He was twice crowned the Penn Relays Champion in the event with meet-record throws in 2014 and 2015.

Brown was twice crowned the SEC's discus champion as a sophomore in 2013 and as a senior a year ago, while also earning All-America honors as the fourth-place finisher nationally at the NCAA meet in 2013.

After signing with the Tigers from Buena High School in Sierra Vista, Arizona, nearly five years ago, Tuttle proved to be one of the most versatile athletes in Derek Yush's throws group in his career as he competed in an array of events ranging from the weight throw indoors to the hammer, javelin and discus throws outdoors. He was a six-time SEC scorer and three-time NCAA qualifier in his four seasons from 2012-15.

But while the Tigers might bid farewell to a proven champion in Brown and championship stalwart in Tuttle, they potentially welcome another with the addition of junior college national champion Johnnie Jackson, who earned four All-America honors in two seasons competing for Coffeyville Community College as part of the National Junior College Athletics Association.

Originally from Cherry Hill, New Jersey, Jackson was crowned the NJCAA Indoor Champion in the weight throw in each of his two seasons at Coffeyville in 2014 and 2015 and also became the new NJCAA Indoor national record holder in the event at the Region IV Indoor Championships a year ago when he posted a personal-best throw of 66-9 ¾ in claiming the regional crown.

Jackson is also a decorated hammer thrower as a two-time NJCAA Outdoor Silver Medalist in the event and finishing his junior college career with a lifetime best of 208-6 in the event. He is also a strong candidate while at LSU to step into the discus ring as he joins the Tigers with a personal best of 174-2 in the event.

The Tigers boast strong depth in the weight throw and hammer throw events as Jackson will join the likes of seniors David Collins and Patrick Geers in competing for championship honors during the 2016 season.

Collins, who hails from Broadmoor High School in Baton Rouge, qualified to throw the hammer at the NCAA East Preliminary Rounds for the first time in his collegiate career in 2015 after unleashing a personal best mark of 206-5 at the LSU Alumni Gold meet last April. That performance moved Collins into the No. 7 spot on LSU's all-time outdoor performance list in the men's hammer throw.

Collins also cracked LSU's all-time Top 10 list in the weight throw indoors when he uncorked a PR of 64-6 ¾ at last year's LSU Indoor Invitational to become the No. 9-ranked performer in school history.

Geers nearly scored for the Tigers in his SEC Championship debut last winter when he threw a personal best of 63-8 ¾ to take ninth place overall in the weight throw final to cap his 2015 indoor season. He later stepped into the circle in both the discus and hammer throws at the SEC Outdoor Championships to close out his junior season. Geers owns personal bests of 167-3 in the discus throw and 202-0 in the hammer throw.

The Tigers also feature two talented javelin throwers in their ranks as Terry Hughes and Garret LeBouef return for their junior year in 2016. Hughes, a two-year letterwinner and two-time SEC Championship competitor with the Tigers, owns a personal best of 207-4 in the event. LeBouef has thrown a lifetime best of 197-11 in the javelin in his time with the Tigers.

2016 Women's Season Preview

Returning Firepower

LADY TIGERS RETURN ONE OF NATION'S TOP TEAMS IN 2015

The Lady Tigers relied on youth to return them amongst the NCAA's elite in 2015 as they cracked the Top 10 by tying for ninth place at the NCAA Indoor Championships before ending the season with an 11th-place finish at the NCAA Outdoor Championships with their performance. In all, eight Lady Tigers turned in All-American performances over the course of the season while seven of those athletes reached All-America status for the first time in their collegiate careers.

All eight of those All-Americans make their return to the squad in 2016 as LSU will once again challenge for top honors at the SEC and NCAA Championships. Chance Chase returns as the only senior All-American in the squad, while other All-Americans in juniors Nataliyah Friar, Rushell Harvey, Jada Martin and Rebekah Wales; and sophomores Mikiah Brisco, Daeshon Gordon and Aleia Hobbs hope to make 2016 a season to remember in Baton Rouge.

Sprints/Relays

A youthful sprint squad stepped onto the track for the Lady Tigers for the first time during the 2015 season and led the team to a top-10 finish with a tie for ninth place at the NCAA Division I Indoor Track & Field Championships and just outside the Top 10 with an 11th-place finish at the NCAA Outdoor Championships last June.

With returning All-American Jada Martin already in their ranks, the Lady Tigers welcomed in-state recruits Mikiah Brisco and Aleia Hobbs into the program to provide the squad with a foundation on which to build in the sprints and relays and power LSU's program back into the NCAA's elite once again last season.

Martin emerged as one of the NCAA's leading 200-meter sprinters during her All-American sophomore season in 2015 when she became an NCAA finalist in the event for the first time in her career while taking home a finish of eighth place nationally at the NCAA Outdoor Championships held at Oregon's Hayward Field last June. She qualified with a wind-legal personal best of 22.76 (+1.8) in the NCAA semifinals.

Just two months into her collegiate career, Brisco earned her first career All-America honor as a Lady Tiger when she raced to a fifth-place finish in the 60-meter final at the NCAA Indoor Championships as she followed a personal-best time of 7.23 in the semifinal round with a time of 7.25 in the final to finish among the NCAA's elite sprinters during the 2015 indoor season.

Hobbs took it a step further and earned a lane in the national final of the 100 meters in her NCAA Championships debut after racing to a wind-legal PR of 11.13 (+2.0) in the semifinal round to become one of the fastest freshmen to ever wear the purple and gold. Hobbs crossed the finish line in sixth place in her first NCAA final with a wind-aided time of 11.16 (+3.1) to score three points for the team in her NCAA debut.

LSU's All-American trio of Martin, Brisco and Hobbs teamed with sophomore Rushell Harvey to form one of the nation's fastest 4x100-meter relay teams throughout the 2015 outdoor season as they clocked a season's best time of 42.80 in an All-SEC third-place finish at the SEC Championships. They followed with an All-American performance at the NCAA Championships where they placed fifth nationally in the sprint relay final.

Martin even proved herself as a key member of LSU's 4x400-meter relay team during the 2015 season when she ran the second leg for the team that claimed All-SEC honors as the SEC Outdoor Bronze Medalists a year ago. She joined with All-American hurdlers Chance Chase and Daeshon Gordon and second-year standout Travia Jones as an all-conference performer in the mile relay.

Two other Lady Tigers will look to bounce back from injury-plagued 2015 seasons to star individually and as part of the team's relay pools this year as senior Kiersten Duncan and redshirt freshman Oksana Lawrence will return to action in 2016. Duncan has run personal bests of 11.72 and 23.52 in the short sprints in her time in Baton Rouge, while Lawrence owns a lifetime best of 53.61 in the 400-meter dash.

LSU's sprint squad has also been strengthened by an outstanding recruiting class from 2015 that features the likes of Oregon transfer Christian Brennan (Waterdown, Ontario, Canada) and former high school standouts Kortnei Johnson (Italy, Texas) and Rachel Misher (Baton Rouge, Louisiana).

An NCAA Champion and All-American in her two seasons running on Oregon's 4x400-meter relay team, Brennan looks to slot right into LSU's relay rotation in her junior season as she joined the program with top times of 23.43 in the 200 meters and 52.12 in the 400 meters in her career. She was the third leg for Oregon's NCAA Indoor Champion mile relay team in 2014 while helping the Ducks set a collegiate indoor record of 3:27.40 in the national final to eclipse Texas at the finish line and clinch the NCAA Indoor team title.

Johnson is a former seven-time state champion in Texas while running for Italy High School where she blistered the track with personal bests of 11.51 in the 100 meters and 23.94 in the 200 meters before signing with a deep and talented sprint squad at LSU. She also posted career-best wind-aided times of 11.26 and 23.39 in the state finals to sweep Texas Class 2A titles in both sprint races as a senior.

Misher is a former 10-time Class 2A Outdoor state champion and two-time Division II Indoor state champion in Louisiana while competing for Episcopal High School. She arrived on LSU's campus with personal-best runs of 7.59 in the 60 meters, 11.73 in the 100 meters and 24.64 in the 200 meters during her high school career at nearby Episcopal.

Hurdles

The Lady Tigers feature a team of talented hurdlers as they look to join the national championship race and push for the trophy places at the NCAA Championships in 2016 as All-Americans Chance Chase and Daeshon Gordon headline the squad following outstanding seasons last spring.

After claiming her first career All-America honor in the 400-meter hurdles as a sophomore in 2014, Chase earned a spot in the NCAA final in the 100-meter hurdles for the first time a season ago when she posted a new personal best of 12.95 in a sixth-place finish nationally to score three points for the Lady Tigers.

Chase first emerged as one of the NCAA's leading 400-meter hurdlers during her sophomore season in 2014 when she ran her personal best of 56.27 in a fifth-place finish at the SEC Outdoor Championships before she went on to equal that finish with a fifth-place showing after running 56.51 in the national final at the NCAA Championships held at Oregon's Hayward Field.

Gordon added a point herself in the national final as she placed eighth in her NCAA Championship debut just one year after joining the Lady Tigers from Northeast High School in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. She joined the Lady Tigers as one of the top high school talents nationally with PR times of 13.61 in the 100 hurdles and 58.70 in the 400 hurdles during her prep career.

The Jamaican international showed tremendous improvement in only one season with Dennis Shaver's coaching as she dropped her personal bests to lows of 12.97 in the 100-meter hurdles and 57.24 in the 400-meter hurdles over the course of her freshman season in 2015.

Her run of 12.97 at the Jamaican National Senior Championships last summer set a new Jamaican junior record.

Gordon was also an NCAA Championships qualifier in her debut season indoors at LSU as her personal-best time of 8.20 in the 60-meter hurdles earned her a fifth-place finish at the SEC Indoor Championships.

Their performance in the hurdle events down the stretch was a key in the Lady Tigers competing for a top-10 finish at the NCAA Outdoor Championships where they were just outside in 11th place. The Lady Tigers are sure to count on their experience and All-American pedigree in their push for the top places in the team standings throughout the 2016 season.

The Lady Tigers will actually feature three of the 10 fastest 400-meter hurdlers in the school's history during the 2016 outdoor season as they also welcome back Compton, California, native and former Long Beach Poly High School standout Kymber Payne to the track for her sophomore season.

Payne was an NCAA Championships qualifier in the 400 hurdles in her debut season with the Lady Tigers a year ago, clocking a personal-best time of 58.10. That time cracked the Top 10 of LSU's all-time outdoor performance list at No. 10 as she ended her rookie season among the fastest Lady Tigers in history.

Junior Bryiana Richardson is a two-time NCAA qualifier in the 400 hurdles during a collegiate career in which she has run a PR of 58.61 as she followed a quarterfinals appearance as a freshman in 2014 with a first-round spot as a sophomore a year ago. Fellow junior Ka'Lynn Jupiter also lined up in the first round of qualifying at the NCAA East Prelims last spring after she earned a seventh-place finish in her first career SEC final at the SEC Championships while running a personal best of 58.55.

Middle Distance/Distance

The 2015 season saw the emergence of Lady Tiger sophomore Morgan Schuetz as one of the NCAA's leading middle distance runners as a two-time NCAA semifinalist in the 800-meter run and two-time All-SEC performer in both the 800 meters and distance medley relay while helping to lead the team in the championship meets.

Schuetz slashed nearly four seconds from her lifetime best 800-meter performance over the course of the 2015 indoor and outdoor seasons while becoming one of the fastest Lady Tigers in history.

A product of nearby Parkview Baptist High School in Baton Rouge, Schuetz twice came up just one place short of advancing to her first career NCAA final in 2015 when she placed ninth overall in the national semifinal at the NCAA Championships during both the indoor and outdoor seasons. In fact, she was the sixth-fastest runner in qualifying in her debut at the NCAA Indoor Championships a year ago, but was denied a position in the final due to the advancement rules in place for the championship.

Schuetz turned in a new indoor personal best in her semifinal heat at the NCAA Championships when she crossed the finish line in sixth place in the race with the sixth-fastest time overall for 2 minutes, 4.54 seconds to close out the 2015 indoor season as the sixth-fastest Lady Tiger to ever line up in the event indoors in team history.

Schuetz carried that momentum into the outdoor season when she scored the victory in each of her first two 800-meter races of the spring at Arizona's Jim Click Shootout and the LSU Invitational meet held almost one month later. It was at the LSU Invitational where she smashed her lifetime best with a run of 2:03.12 to become the No. 8-ranked Lady Tiger in history to line up in the event outdoors.

Schuetz added her second All-SEC honor of her sophomore season when she raced to a career-best third-place finish in the 800-meter final at the SEC Outdoor Championships and finish as the SEC Outdoor Bronze Medalist in the event. Her run to the NCAA semifinals featured a time of 2:03.93 she clocked in the quarterfinal round at the NCAA East Preliminary Rounds.

Schuetz actually anchored the Lady Tigers to an All-SEC second-place finish in the distance medley relay at the SEC Indoor Championships a year ago with a strong mile leg as she was crowned an SEC Silver Medalist with Andria Aguilar (1,200 meters), Kiersten Duncan (400 meters) and Danielle Avery (800 meters) in the event.

The future is certainly very bright for the Lady Tigers in the middle distance and distance events after signing Hollie Parker and Erika Lewis to National Letters of Intent during the 2015 recruiting cycle as they even continue to make strides under third-year LSU assistant coach Khadevis Robinson leading the group.

A native of Cambridge, England, Parker proved to be one of the top young talents in Europe prior to her arrival in Baton Rouge as she signed with PRs of 2:08.47 in the 800 meters and 4:27.66 in the 1,500 meters. Lewis, who joined the Lady Tigers following a standout career at Waukeg High School in West Des Moines, Iowa, is also an accomplished middle distance prospect with personal bests of 2:12.38 in the 800 meters and 4:40.73 in the 1,500 meters as she also steps onto the track in the purple and gold for the first time in 2016.

Jumps/Multis

In an era in which the women's jumps at the collegiate level are perhaps more competitive than at any other point in time, Nataliyah Friar joined rarified air during her sophomore season last spring when she earned All-America honors in both the long jump and triple jump as one of the NCAA's best.

Friar became LSU's first 21-foot long jumper in 10 seasons when she soared to an indoor personal best of 21 feet, 0 inches on her sixth and final attempt of the final to win the NCAA Indoor bronze medal and secure an All-American third-place finish at last season's NCAA Division I Indoor Track & Field Championships. She was also the first Lady Tiger to earn indoor All-America honors in the event since 2008.

That single jump moved Friar from eighth place up to third place in the NCAA final and vaulted the Wentzville, Missouri, native into the No. 7 spot on LSU's all-time indoor performance list in the event.

After earning her first career All-America honor in the long jump during the 2015 indoor season, Friar reached All-America status in the triple jump for the first time during the outdoor season while earning a sixth-place finish nationally with a wind-aided jump of 43-8

½ (+2.8) on her very first jump at the NCAA Outdoor Championships.

Also an All-SEC performer during her sophomore season, Friar was crowned the SEC Outdoor Silver Medalist in the long jump and SEC Outdoor Bronze Medalist in the triple jump with her performance last May. That is where she jumped her wind-aided career best of 21-10 ½ (+2.5) in the long jump final and wind-legal personal best of 43-10 (+0.9) in the triple jump final for a pair of All-SEC finishes.

She followed the collegiate season by jumping a wind-legal best of 21-0 ¼ during a trip to the World University Games in South Korea with Team USA to become the 10th-ranked long jumper outdoors in school history.

Another Lady Tiger who returns for her senior season looking to get back to the NCAA Championships and score again for the team in the championship season is high jumper Shanice Hall. Originally from St. Catherine, Jamaica, Hall was an SEC scorer for the Lady Tigers for the first time in her career a year ago when she placed sixth indoors and fifth outdoors while competing in the high jump at the SEC Championships.

A two-time NCAA Championships qualifier at the NCAA East Preliminary Rounds in 2013 and 2015, Hall has jumped a best of 5-9 ¾ in her time with the Lady Tigers and owns a lifetime PR of 6-0 ¾ in the event.

Sugar Land, Texas, native Bria Druihet jumped her lifetime PR during her freshman season with the Lady Tigers a year ago when she recorded a mark of 40-6 in the triple jump in an indoor meet at New Mexico early on last season. Druihet eclipsed the 40-foot mark three times on the year with jumps of 40-0 at the LSU Twilight indoors and 40-4 ¾ (+3.6) at the Battle on the Bayou outdoors. She lettered for the Lady Tigers in her rookie season while competing in both the long jump and triple jump at the SEC Championships.

Cocoa, Florida, product Danielle Phillips also returns to Baton Rouge for her sophomore season in 2016 with a lifetime best of 20-0 in the long jump to her credit that was set during her youth career at Rockledge Senior High School. She has also jumped a wind-aided career best of 20-5 ½ as she eyes her first 20-foot jump as a Lady Tiger this season.

Throws

While the 2015 season might have closed the book on one of the historic careers by a Lady Tiger thrower with Tori Bliss' departure, it wrote the first chapter in another blossoming career with the emergence of Rebekah Wales as one of the NCAA's leading javelin throwers during her sophomore season last spring.

A native of West Monroe, Louisiana, and product of West Monroe High School, Wales became the first Lady Tiger to earn All-America honors in the javelin throw in 27 years with her fourth-place finish nationally during last year's NCAA Outdoor Championships held at Oregon's Hayward Field. That's where she threw a series-best of 178-0 on her third throw in the qualifying round to become the first Lady Tiger thrower to score points in the event at the NCAA Championships since Cheryl Coker in 1988.

Wales qualified for the NCAA semifinals for the second-straight season after unleashing her personal-best throw of 179-11 for the second-best qualifying performance at the NCAA East Preliminary Rounds to move up to No. 2 on LSU's all-time outdoor performance list in the women's javelin. She is also the first Lady Tiger since Coker in the late 1980s to eclipse the 170-foot mark in the event.

Not only that, but Wales is also just the fourth Lady Tiger to be crowned the SEC Champion in the javelin after opening her series with a winning throw of 177-0 at the SEC Championships at Mississippi State.

Wales wasn't the only Lady Tiger javelin thrower to enjoy the best season of her collegiate career in 2015 as Annie Simoneaux bounced back from two injury-plagued seasons in 2013 and 2014 to throw a PR of 165-6 on the runway at the NCAA East Preliminary Rounds to advance to the national semifinals at Hayward Field for the first time in her career.

Simoneaux's personal-best throw of 165-6 made her the No. 8-ranked javelin thrower in the history of the Lady Tiger program as she followed with a 10th-place finish nationally in the NCAA semifinals with a best throw of 163-6 at the NCAA Outdoor Championships. The Rayne, Louisiana, native also picked up four points for the team with a fifth-place finish in the javelin final at the SEC Championships last May.

Simoneaux has been an All-SEC performer in her time with the Lady Tigers as she kicked off her career by winning the SEC Outdoor bronze medal as a true freshman in 2011 before scoring the SEC Outdoor silver medal as the conference runner-up as a sophomore in 2012.

Simoneaux and LSU's coaching staff got the ruling they hoped for in the offseason that she would be granted a sixth-year of eligibility to compete again in 2016 after missing the 2013 and 2014 seasons with injury.

Sophomore Sidnie Wilder also looks to take a step forward in her development and contribute for the Lady Tigers in the championship meets this season after finishing her freshman season in 2015 as one of LSU's top-10 performers in school history in both the weight throw indoors and hammer throw outdoors. She threw a personal best of 58-10 ¾ in the weight throw at last season's LSU Twilight meet to rank No. 8 in school history in the event, while also throwing a seasonal best of 180-8 in the hammer throw at the Texas Relays to rank No. 9 all-time at LSU.

Wilder, who owns a personal best of 181-8 in the hammer throw from her prep career at Cameron (Wisc.) High School, placed 10th in both events at the SEC Championships in her debut season a year ago.

Also returning to the women's throws group for the 2016 season is sophomore Marvalyn Vernon, who concluded her freshman season in 2015 with personal bests of 51-7 in the weight throw indoors, and 130-10 in the discus throw and 133-9 in the hammer throw outdoors in her first season in the program.

Dennis Shaver

Head Coach • 12th Season • 21st Season at LSU • Texas-Arlington, 1979

When Dennis Shaver ascended to the rank of head coach of the LSU Track & Field program in July 2004, he was given the reigns of a national power recognized worldwide for its dominance at the collegiate level while racking up a total of 30 NCAA team championships in its history.

Expectations were high, but Shaver had experienced LSU's success first-hand as he helped coach the Tigers and Lady Tigers to a combined 12 national championships while serving as an assistant coach for nine seasons from 1996-2004. It came as no surprise when he was asked to continue LSU's championship tradition when the position opened in the wake of the 2004 season.

Shaver knew the challenge that lay in front of him when he accepted the job. At his opening press conference, Shaver promised fans, coaches, officials and his student-athletes that "we are going to do everything we can to keep this kind of championship program going here at LSU." He has certainly delivered on that promise as the program has showed no signs of slowing down under his guidance.

The Lady Tigers were crowned national champions during the 2008 outdoor season and have won a total of seven Southeastern Conference championships during his tenure. While sweeping SEC Indoor and SEC Outdoor titles in 2008 and 2011, the Lady Tigers have also captured outdoor titles during the 2007, 2010 and 2012 seasons.

The Lady Tigers have also added 10 trophy performances with top-four finishes at the NCAA Championships in 11 previous seasons under Shaver's guidance, including three second-place finishes, five third-place finishes and one fourth-place finish along with their national championship in 2008.

The Tigers have added to their trophy case as well while racking up 13 team trophies with a top-four finish at the NCAA Championships as they have earned five second-place finishes, one third-place finish and seven fourth-place finishes between the indoor and outdoor seasons. The Tigers also scored five second-place finishes and three third-place finishes at the SEC Championships under Shaver.

In all, Shaver's teams have combined for 23 top-three finishes at the SEC Championships and 23 top-four finishes at the NCAA Championships between the indoor and outdoor seasons going back to his debut season as LSU's head coach in 2005.

Vernon Norwood and the Tigers' 4x400-meter relay team added to LSU's national championship pedigree a season ago while accounting for three NCAA event titles to lead the team back among the nation's elite once again in 2015.

Norwood was crowned the NCAA Indoor and NCAA Outdoor Champion in the 400-meter dash to highlight a historic senior season at LSU. In his final season, Norwood became just the 14th sprinter in collegiate history to sweep NCAA Indoor and NCAA Outdoor titles in the 400 meters (or 440 yards) in the same season while also anchoring the Tigers to a national championship in the mile relay outdoors.

He first clocked an indoor personal best and became the second-ranked LSU Tiger indoors in history with his winning run of 45.31 seconds at the NCAA Indoor Championships to win his first national championship in the 400-meter dash. Norwood completed his NCAA-title sweep outdoors with a time of 45.10 in the national final to join the great Xavier Carter in 2006 as the only two Tigers to win both NCAA Indoor and NCAA Outdoor titles in the event.

Norwood wrapped up a brilliant career by anchoring the Tigers to the national title in the 4x400-meter relay as he teamed with Quincy Downing, Fitzroy Dunkley and Cyril Grayson to run 3 minutes, 1.96 seconds in the final to hand LSU its fourth NCAA Outdoor crown in the event all-time. Norwood was certainly one of the most prolific sprinters in school history as he won four NCAA titles, eight All-America honors and nine All-SEC awards in just two seasons at LSU.

Their performance was instrumental in the Tigers taking home a fourth-place team trophy at the NCAA Division I Outdoor Track & Field Championships for the second-straight season as the team scored 45 points in two days of competition at Oregon's Hayward Field to close out the 2015 season.

While emerging as one of the world's top 400-meter sprinters after running a lifetime best of 44.44 at the LSU Alumni Gold last spring, Norwood followed the collegiate season by representing the United States at the IAAF World Championships in Beijing where he was crowned a World Champion as part of Team USA's 4x400-meter relay team in his championship debut.

The LSU Track & Field program shined brightly in Beijing last summer as former Lady Tiger national champion Cassandra Tate also made her mark as one of the world's great 400-meter hurdlers in bagging the bronze medal for the United States in her championship debut. Tate's breakout 2015 season on the world stage with Shaver's guidance has her poised for a spot on the medal stand in Rio de Janeiro at the 2016 Olympic Games fast approaching this summer.

Despite missing out on her first World Championships while battling injuries late in her outdoor season, former Lady Tiger standout Jasmin Stowers also emerged as one of the world's top talents in the 100-meter hurdles in 2015 largely thanks to her training with Shaver in Baton Rouge.

Stowers, who was crowned a five-time SEC Champion and seven-time All-American in her career at LSU from 2011-14, took the world by storm with a series of personal bests last spring culminating with an IAAF Diamond League all-time record of 12.35 in Doha, Qatar. Stowers became the eighth-fastest 100 hurdler all-time and the fourth-fastest American in history with her performance.

Stowers competed as a Lady Tiger for the final time in 2014 as she went out as the NCAA Indoor Bronze Medalist in the 60-meter hurdles for the second year in a row and the NCAA Outdoor Silver Medalist in the 100-meter hurdles that season. Her altitude-adjusted time of 7.96 in the 2014 NCAA final in the 60 hurdles established a new school record in her final race indoors at LSU.

The curtain closed on one of the storied careers in the history of collegiate track and field in 2013 when Kimberlyn Duncan stepped onto the track for the final time as a Lady Tiger at the NCAA Outdoor Championships in Oregon.

Duncan cemented her legacy as one of the all-time great sprinters when she tied the fastest all conditions 200 meters in collegiate history by running a wind-aided 22.04 to win a sixth national championship in the 200-meter dash in her career. Duncan's performance tied the 23-year-old collegiate record of 22.04 set by LSU's Dawn Sowell at the 1989 NCAA Outdoor Championships in Provo, Utah.

The Katy, Texas, product stepped into history as she swept NCAA Indoor and NCAA Outdoor gold medals for the third-straight season to become the first sprinter in collegiate history to claim six national titles in the 200-meter dash at the NCAA level. Duncan matched that output at the conference level with a sweep of SEC Indoor and SEC Outdoor titles in the 200 meters for the third year in a row, even running an SEC Outdoor Championships meet record of 22.35 in her senior season in 2013.

Not only did Duncan match the fastest all conditions 200 meters in collegiate history as a senior, but she set the low-altitude collegiate record of 22.19 as a junior in 2012 in the NCAA semifinals. She ran three of the five fastest wind-legal times and five

"We are fortunate to have one of the finest coaches in the country leading our track and field program at LSU. LSU's track teams have a record of great accomplishment under Dennis Shaver's leadership the last 11 years. He has not only helped establish LSU as a leader in competition, but also in the community and classroom as well. It is a testament to the kind of student-athletes we want representing this University."

– JOE ALLEVA, LSU DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

of the eight fastest all conditions times in NCAA history at the time as the most dominant 200-meter sprinter ever at the collegiate level.

Duncan earned the right to represent the United States on the international stage for the first time in her career in 2013 when she dropped her personal best of 21.80 in capturing her first career U.S. Outdoor title in the 200 meters to qualify for the IAAF World Championships in Athletics.

Duncan also earned a reputation as one of the world's emerging talents in the 100-meter dash during her Lady Tiger career when she became just the fifth collegiate sprinter to break 11 seconds after setting the SEC Championships meet record of 10.96 in the 2012 conference final. Duncan defended her SEC 100-meter title as a senior in 2013 before winning the NCAA Outdoor bronze medal in the event that season. She also scored back-to-back NCAA silver medals in the 100 meters in 2011 and 2012.

Winner of The Bowerman in 2012 as the top athlete in collegiate track and field, Duncan tied the school record with seven NCAA event titles and 12 SEC events titles in four seasons from 2010-13.

Like Duncan, Tate wrapped up the 2012 campaign as a national champion as she recorded her collegiate best of 55.22 to win the NCAA title in the 400-meter hurdles. She also helped the Lady Tigers win the national title in the 4x400-meter relay during the indoor season as she ran the second leg on a team that featured Rebecca Alexander, Siedda Herbert and Jonique Day as they claimed the 13th NCAA crown for the program in the event all-time with their victory.

Alexander, Tate and Day also joined leadoff leg Latoya McDermott on the team that set a new school record of 3:24.59 to finish as the national runners-up during the NCAA Outdoor Championships, marking the third-fastest 4x400-meter relay performance in NCAA history.

It was a 2012 season in which Shaver was honored as both the NCAA Division I Women's Outdoor Coach of the year by the U.S. Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association and the SEC Women's Outdoor Coach of the Year in a vote of the league's head coaches. Shaver has now twice been recognized as the National Coach of the Year and seven times named the SEC Coach of the Year.

Shaver has coached 44 athletes to 55 NCAA event titles in a celebrated career that spans 20 seasons at LSU. His athletes have also captured 138 SEC event titles and 503 All-America honors all-time.

LSU had been on the cusp of adding to its national championship collection in Shaver's first four seasons as head coach as the teams combined for seven second-place team finishes at the NCAA Indoor and NCAA Outdoor Championships, including four runner-up finishes for the Tigers and three runner-up finishes for the Lady Tigers during that span.

But with his top team making the trip to Des Moines for the 2008 NCAA Division I Outdoor Track & Field Championships, Shaver knew LSU was a championship contender on both sides.

The meet unfolded just the way he had anticipated with the women's race for the team title going down to the very last event of the weekend. The Lady Tigers were tied with defending champion Arizona State at 59 points with both teams advancing a team into the final of the 4x400 relay. The stage was set for a dramatic conclusion with the team crossing the finish line first taking the title.

The Lady Tigers carried the stick around the track in 3:28.33 to score eight points with a second-place finish in the race, while the Sun Devils were unable to keep pace with a fifth-place finish. The final score of the meet after 21 events read LSU 67, Arizona State 63.

Not only did the Lady Tigers capture their first national championship under Shaver, but the team won the 31st NCAA title in the history of the LSU Track & Field program nearly 75 years to the day that the Tigers won their first national championship way back on June 17, 1933. It proved to be a fitting end to a season that also saw the Lady Tigers dominate the Southeastern Conference by sweeping SEC Indoor and SEC Outdoor championships for the first time under Shaver's direction.

Considered one of the leading sprints and hurdles coaches in the sport, LSU's athletes flourished under Shaver's guidance once again as the Tigers and Lady Tigers made their presence felt throughout the 2008 season. Shaver coached the likes of Lady Tiger greats Kelly Baptiste and Nickiesha Wilson to NCAA event titles during their final season in the purple and gold, while he also coached Tiger sprint star Richard Thompson to one of the most prolific seasons in collegiate history.

Baptiste was the catalyst in LSU's national championship run as she accounted for a team high 19 points at the NCAA Championships while becoming the fifth Lady Tiger in program history to be crowned NCAA champion in the 100-meter dash. Wilson was equally as impressive at the NCAA Outdoor meet as she added 18 points with an NCAA crown in the 400-meter hurdles and a runner-up finish in the final of the 100-meter hurdles.

But no athlete dominated collegiate track and field in 2008 quite like Thompson. Arguably the greatest sprinter to ever wear the LSU uniform, Thompson became the first Tiger to sweep NCAA titles in the 60 and 100 meters in the same season while also running the second leg on LSU's NCAA-title-winning 4x100-meter relay team. In addition, Thompson won All-America honors in the 200 meters with a runner-up finish at the NCAA Outdoor Championships while being chosen as the NCAA Men's Outdoor Track

Athlete of the Year.

He became the first sprinter coached by Shaver to crack the 10-second barrier in the 100-meter dash with his victory at the SEC Outdoor Championships in Auburn, Alabama. Thompson's 9.93 in the conference final set an SEC record and was the second-fastest time ever recorded at the collegiate level.

Thompson, who came to LSU from the country of Trinidad & Tobago with a personal record of 10.65 in the 100 meters, wrapped up his career in Baton Rouge as a four-time NCAA Champion, five-time SEC Champion and eight-time All-American under Shaver's guidance.

Shaver coached Thompson to worldwide stardom at the 2008 Olympic Games in Beijing where he shocked the world by winning a silver medal in the final of the 100-meter dash while setting a new collegiate record with a time of 9.89. He finished second only to Jamaican world-record holder and gold medalist Usain Bolt. After anchoring Trinidad's 4x100-meter relay to a silver medal, Thompson's unforgettable season was complete.

While continuing to train in Baton Rouge following his collegiate career, Thompson dropped his 100-meter personal best with a Trinidad & Tobago national record of 9.82 that he set in winning the title at the 2014 Sagor National Open Championships in Port-of-Spain.

While Thompson grabbed the headlines, he was not the only athlete coached by Shaver to line up at the Olympic Games in 2008. Former Lady Tiger hurdler and two-time World Indoor champion Lolo Jones made her Olympics debut with a seventh-place finish after winning the 100-meter hurdles at the U.S. Olympic Trials, while Baptiste (Trinidad and Tobago) and Sherry Fletcher (Grenada) ran the 100 meters and Wilson (Jamaica) and Isa Phillips (Jamaica) competed in the 400-meter hurdles.

Jones, who continues to train with

Coach Shaver and his wife, Connie, at the White House for Champions Day in November 2008

Shaver in Baton Rouge, has become one of the recognizable faces in track and field as the world's leading sprint hurdler. In becoming the first hurdler in meet history to win back-to-back World Indoor gold medals in the 60-meter hurdles at the 2010 IAAF World Indoor Championships, Jones became the new American-record holder after setting a new personal best with a winning time of 7.72. Shaver has also coached Jones to a PR of 12.43 in the 100-meter hurdles she set in the semifinal round at the 2008 Olympic Games.

Jones made her return to the Olympic Games in London as she just missed earning a spot on the medal podium with a fourth-place finish in her second-straight Olympic final.

LSU carried its momentum into the 2009 season as Shaver again proved why he is one of the more respected coaches in the business while coaching two-sport star Trindon Holliday to his first career NCAA championship in the 100-meter dash.

After finishing as the national runner-up in 2007 and earning a third-place finish in 2008, Holliday enjoyed a season to remember as he became the third different Tiger in four years to be crowned the NCAA 100-meter champion. He sprinted to the finish line with a PR of 10.00 to continue LSU's domination in the event. His victory in the NCAA 100-meter final followed a 2009 indoor season in which he earned his second national runner-up finish in the 60-meter dash at the NCAA Indoor meet.

But no athlete has dominated the sport with Shaver's coaching quite like LSU great Xavier Carter did in 2006 as the Tiger sophomore captured four NCAA event titles at the NCAA Outdoor Championships held in Sacramento, California. Carter became the first collegiate athlete since Ohio State's Jesse Owens in 1935 and 1936 to win four NCAA titles at a single national meet as he struck gold in the 100 meters, 400 meters, 4x100-meter relay and 4x400-meter relay. In his brief two-year career at LSU, Carter won an impressive seven individual national championships and 10 All-America honors as the only collegiate athlete in history to double with national titles in the 100 meters and 400 meters in the same year at the NCAA Championships.

Sprint sensation Kelly Willie also capped a stellar career in 2006 by leading the Tigers to three relay national titles while earning a total of five All-America honors. With Shaver's coaching, Willie finished his four-year career in Baton Rouge as the most decorated athlete in the history of LSU men's track and field, tying Carter with a school-record seven NCAA individual championships and a LSU record 19 career All-America honors.

In Shaver's first season as head coach in 2005, Carter and Willie provided the foundation for one of the elite mile relay teams in NCAA history that put an exclamation point onto the end of the collegiate season by setting a new collegiate record en route to a national championship.

LSU's foursome of Reggie Dardar (46.4), Willie (44.4), Bennie Brazell (44.8) and Carter (44.0) clocked 2:59.59 in shattering the 17-year-old record of 2:59.91 set by UCLA in 1988. That national crown catapulted the Tigers to a third-place finish in the final team standings, an effort that was assisted by the national runner-up efforts by Carter in the 200-meter dash and Brazell in the 400-meter hurdles.

While he enters his 12th season as head coach, Shaver has enjoyed 20 tremendously successful seasons at LSU after joining the program as an assistant coach in August 1995.

Shaver is regarded as one of the premier coaches in the sport of track and field, and he has earned national recognition for his many accomplishments throughout his coaching career.

Not only was he named the NCAA Women's Outdoor Coach of the Year by the USTFCCCA in 2008 and 2012, but he has also been named a seven-time SEC Women's Coach of the Year during his tenure. In 2003, he was recognized by his peers as the first USTCA Assistant Coach of the Year for Women's Sprints and Hurdles. In addition, Shaver has received nine National Coach of the Year awards, six Kansas Collegiate Coach of the Year honors and 16 Regional Coach of the Year awards in his coaching career that spans 33 years.

Shaver is certified as a Level I, II and Master Coach by USA Track and Field and has been an instructor for the USATF Coaches Education curriculum of the sprint and hurdle events.

Debbie Parris-Thymes

Assistant Coach • 11th Season • LSU, 1995

Former Lady Tiger standout Debbie Parris-Thymes enters her 11th season working as an assistant to head coach Dennis Shaver as she seeks to mold the women's sprinters and hurdlers into one of the elite groups in the nation once again during the 2016 season.

Parris-Thymes has brought a wealth of competitive experience and knowledge to the Lady Tiger program as she wrapped up an illustrious 11-year professional career at the IAAF World Championships in Athletics in 2005. She turned that experience into immediate success as an assistant coach at LSU as she has helped coach the Lady Tigers to eight team championships during her tenure, including an NCAA Outdoor title in 2008 and five SEC Outdoor and two SEC Indoor titles since 2005.

The Lady Tiger great has helped coach 16 Lady Tigers to individual NCAA titles, 21 Lady Tigers to individual SEC titles and 31 Lady Tigers to All-America honors over the past 10 seasons.

In all, 31 Lady Tiger sprinters and hurdlers have accounted for 161 All-America selections as NCAA Championship scorers since Parris-Thymes joined Shaver's staff in 2005. That includes five Lady Tigers who won All-America honors for the first time in their careers a year ago to help guide their team to a tie for ninth place nationally at the NCAA Indoor Championships and 11th place overall at the NCAA Outdoor Championships with their performance.

Sophomores Rushell Harvey and Jada Martin and freshmen Mikiah Brisco, Daeshon Gordon and Aleia Hobbs all achieved All-America status for the first time as Lady Tigers. Junior Chanice Chase earned All-America honors for the second-straight season with her performance in 2015.

In 2014, former Lady Tiger standout Jasmin Stowers put an exclamation point onto the end of a storied collegiate career as she captured the NCAA Outdoor silver medal in the 100-meter hurdles, clocking her collegiate-best wind-aided time of 12.54 seconds in the national final. She followed the 2014 collegiate season by racing to a new wind-legal best of 12.71 at the USA Outdoor Championships, finishing her collegiate career only one one-hundredth of a second shy of matching Tananjalyne Stanley's school-record time of 12.70 set in 1989.

Stowers did wrap up the 2014 indoor season as LSU's school-record holder in the 60-meter hurdles when she crossed the finish line with an altitude-adjusted time of 7.96 to defend her NCAA Indoor bronze medal in the event. That performance smashed Joyce Bates' 14-year-old school record of 7.99 in the event that was previously set during the 2000 season.

Stowers went out as one of the most decorated hurdlers in the history of the Lady Tiger team as a five-time SEC Champion, seven-time All-American and seven-time All-SEC performer.

Two Lady Tigers also scored top-five finishes in the final of the women's 400-meter hurdles at the NCAA Championships in 2014 with Nikita Tracey finishing in fourth place followed by Chase in fifth place nationally that season. Both set personal bests during the 2014 season with Tracey running her PR of 55.18 and Chase clocking her top time of 56.27 as a Lady Tiger.

The curtain closed on one of the storied careers in the history of collegiate track and field in 2013 when Kimberlyn Duncan stepped onto the track for the final time as an LSU Lady Tiger at the NCAA Division I Outdoor Track & Field Championships that season.

Duncan cemented her legacy as one of the all-time great sprinters when she tied the fastest all conditions 200 meters in collegiate history by running a wind-aided 22.04 to win a sixth national championship in the 200-meter dash in her career. Duncan's performance tied the 23-year-old collegiate record of 22.04 set by LSU's Dawn Sowell at the 1989 NCAA Outdoor Championships in Provo, Utah.

The Katy, Texas, product stepped into history as she swept NCAA Indoor and NCAA Outdoor gold medals for the third-straight season to become the first sprinter in collegiate history to claim six national titles in the 200-meter dash at the NCAA level. Duncan matched that output at the conference level with a sweep of SEC Indoor and SEC Outdoor titles in the 200 meters for the third year in a row, even running an SEC Outdoor Championships meet record of 22.35 in her senior season in 2013.

Not only did Duncan match the fastest all conditions 200 meters in collegiate history as a senior, but she set the low-altitude collegiate record of 22.19 as a junior in 2012 in the NCAA semifinals. She ran three of the five fastest wind-legal times and five of the eight fastest all conditions times in NCAA history as the most dominant 200-meter sprinter ever at the collegiate level.

Duncan earned the right to represent the United States on the international stage for the first time in her career in 2013 when she dropped her personal best of 21.80 in capturing her first career U.S. Outdoor title in the 200 meters to qualify for the IAAF World Championships in Athletics.

Duncan also earned a reputation as one of the world's emerging talents in the 100-meter dash during her Lady Tiger career when she became just the fifth collegiate sprinter to break 11 seconds after setting the SEC Championships meet record of 10.96 in the 2012 conference final. Duncan defended her SEC 100-meter title as a senior in 2013 before winning the NCAA Outdoor bronze medal in the event for 2013. She also scored back-to-back NCAA silver medals in the 100 meters in 2011 and 2012.

Winner of The Bowerman in 2012 as the top athlete in collegiate track and field, Duncan tied the school record with seven NCAA event titles and 12 SEC events titles in four seasons from 2010-13.

Like Duncan, former Lady Tiger standout Cassandra Tate wrapped up the 2012 campaign as a national champion as she recorded a career-best of 55.22 to claim the NCAA crown in the 400-meter hurdles. Tate also helped lead the Lady Tigers to the national title in the 4x400-meter relay during the indoor season as she ran the second leg on a team that featured Alexander, Siedda Herbert and Jonique Day as they earned the 13th NCAA crown for the program in the event all-time with their victory.

Alexander, Tate and Day also joined leadoff leg Latoya McDermott on the team that set a new school record of 3 minutes, 24.59 seconds to finish as the national runners-up during the NCAA Outdoor Championships, marking the third-fastest 4x400-meter relay performance in NCAA history.

Parris-Thymes' athletes were the catalyst in the Lady Tigers winning their 25th national championship in 2008 with a victory at the NCAA Outdoor Championships in Des Moines. LSU's sprinters and hurdlers accounted for 59 of 67 points in the team standings as the Lady Tigers won their first NCAA Outdoor crown since 2003. In 2008, Parris-Thymes also helped guide the LSU women to their first sweep of SEC Indoor and SEC Outdoor titles since 1996.

Kelly Baptiste became the first Lady Tiger in program history to sweep NCAA titles in the 60-meter dash and 100-meter dash in the same season, following in the footsteps of LSU greats Dawn Sowell (1989), Esther Jones (1990), D'Andre Hill (1994, 1995) and Sherry Fletcher (2007) as an NCAA 100-meter champion. Baptiste also earned outdoor All-America honors in the 200 meters, 4x100 relay and 4x400 relay to finish as the Lady Tigers' top point scorer at the 2008 NCAA Outdoor Championships.

Using her expertise as a 400-meter hurdler, Parris-Thymes also helped coach former Lady Tiger star Nickiesha Wilson to an NCAA title in the event in LSU's 2008 championship season.

The Lady Tigers carried that momentum into the summer as Baptiste (Trinidad & Tobago), Fletcher (Grenada) and Wilson (Jamaica) each represented their respective countries in the 2008 Olympic Games in Beijing. They were part of the largest representation of any collegiate track and field program in the United States as 12 athletes with LSU ties participated in the Olympics that season.

In 2007, Parris-Thymes helped guide the Lady Tigers to a pair of NCAA runner-up finishes during both the indoor and outdoor seasons, while the team added yet another SEC Outdoor title to its resume.

Fletcher was among the athletes to win a national title with the help of Parris-Thymes that season with her improbable victory in the 100-meter dash at the NCAA Championships, her first event title in an LSU uniform. The Lady Tigers also won an NCAA championship in the 4x400-meter relay during the 2007 outdoor season to put an exclamation point onto the end of a tremendous season.

Having competed extensively at the highest level of international track and field for more than a decade, Parris-Thymes turned in numerous outstanding performances while under Shaver's guidance. Her professional career included appearances in two Olympic Games, six World Championships, two Commonwealth Games and two Goodwill Games, among many other elite international competitions.

A specialist in the 400-meter hurdles, Parris-Thymes' resume boasts three Jamaican national titles, one Central American & Caribbean Championships title, two Commonwealth Games silver medals, a pair of Goodwill Games silver medals, three World Championships finals appearances and two top-10 finishes at the Olympic Games.

Her success was nurtured at the collegiate level while spending two highly successful seasons as a member of the Lady Tigers' national championship squad. An eight-time All-American, Parris-Thymes won a total of five NCAA titles, five SEC titles and was awarded the SEC Commissioner's Trophy in 1994 for her efforts. She currently ranks No. 3 on LSU's all-time outdoor performance list in the 400 hurdles as she posted a top time of 55.17 during her collegiate career.

A native of Trelawny, Jamaica, Parris-Thymes graduated with a bachelor's degree from LSU in 1995 after earning an associate of arts degree from San Jacinto College in 1992. She is married to Derrick Thymes, a former member of the football and track teams at LSU, and they have a daughter named Jana Marie Thymes.

Todd Lane

Assistant Coach • Ninth Season • Luther College, 1995

The LSU jumps program boasts one of the proudest traditions in the history of collegiate track and field in the United States, and assistant coach Todd Lane looks to continue that tradition as he enters his ninth season as a member of LSU's coaching staff in 2016.

The Tigers and Lady Tigers have flourished in eight seasons under Lane's direction as he has coached 11 NCAA scorers to 35 scoring All-America honors in four different jumping events since joining the LSU coaching staff prior to the 2008 season. His student-athletes have also captured six SEC championships and 36 All-SEC honors over the last eight seasons.

2015 saw the emergence of Nataliyah Friar as one of the NCAA's elite jumpers when she claimed a pair of All-America and All-SEC honors with her performance as a sophomore.

The Lady Tigers had not featured a 21-foot jumper for nine seasons until Friar broke that barrier with a jump of 21 feet, 0 inches on her sixth and final attempt of the long jump final at the 2015 NCAA Division I Indoor Track & Field Championships to finish as the NCAA Indoor Bronze Medalist and earn All-America honors for the first time in her career. That single jump on her last attempt moved Friar from eighth place to third place in the final standings.

Not only did Friar jump an indoor PR of 21-0 in the long jump to rank No. 7 in school history, but she also set an indoor career best of 42-6 in the triple jump as a sophomore in 2015.

But it was Friar's performance at the SEC Outdoor Championships a season ago that cemented her status as one of the elite jumpers at the collegiate level with a pair of All-SEC finishes for the first time in her career. That's where she soared to a career-best wind-aided jump of 21-10 ¾ to finish as the SEC Outdoor Silver Medalist in the long jump and a wind-legal PR of 43-10 to finish as the SEC Outdoor Bronze Medalist in the triple jump with two of the top jumps in the NCAA for the 2015 season.

Friar picked up her second All-America honor as a sophomore when she placed sixth in the triple jump final at the NCAA Outdoor Championships at Oregon's Hayward Field to wrap up the collegiate season. She followed by representing Team USA at the World University Games in South Korea in the summer where she jumped her wind-legal best of 21-0 ¾ in the long jump.

Friar wrapped up the 2015 outdoor season ranked No. 7 in school history in the triple jump and No. 10 in school history in the long jump on LSU's all-time outdoor performance list.

The 2013 season proved to be one for the record books for Lane's athletes when Damar Forbes ended one of the most prolific careers for a long jumper in the history of the LSU Track & Field program as a national champion to finish off a dominant outdoor season.

After earning SEC and NCAA silver medals during the 2013 indoor season, Forbes followed outdoors by sweeping SEC Outdoor and NCAA Outdoor titles as the nation's most prolific long jumper at the collegiate level. Forbes posted the two best wind-aided jumps of his collegiate career in sweeping long jump championships with marks of 27-4 ½w at the SEC Championships and 27-4 ¾w at the NCAA Championships that spring. He became just the third LSU Tiger all-time to sweep SEC and NCAA championships in the long jump outdoors by joining the great Billy Brown (1941) and Walter Davis (2002).

Forbes also jumped a wind-legal personal best of 27-0 ¾ to win his second-straight Jamaican long jump title and qualify for the IAAF World Championships in Athletics for the second time for his career as the 10th-ranked long jumper worldwide for 2013. He finished in eighth place in his first international final at the World Championships held in Moscow, Russia, in the summer of 2013.

A native of Decatur, Georgia, Forbes also made his Olympics debut in the summer of 2012 while representing Jamaica at the London Games. He ended his season with an 18th-place finish while competing at the highest level of the sport for the first time.

Forbes went out as one of the most decorated long jumpers in the program's history as an NCAA Champion, two-time SEC Champion and six-time All-American with the Tigers. He is the No. 2-ranked long jumper in school history as his PR of 27-0 ¾ trails only the school-record mark of 27-9 ¾ by 2004 Olympic Silver Medalist John Moffitt.

The 2013 indoor season also saw the emergence of two of the nation's top triple jumpers on the women's side as Keri Emanuel and Lynnika Pitts earned All-America honors after wrapping up their indoor campaign at the NCAA Championships. Emanuel took sixth place while Pitts followed in seventh place in the triple jump final at the NCAA Indoor meet.

Pitts followed with a brilliant senior season in 2014 in which she added two more All-SEC and All-America honors as one of the nation's elite triple jumpers once again.

The Prairieville, Louisiana, native eclipsed the 44-foot mark for the first time in her career in a bronze-medal-winning third-place finish at the 2014 SEC Indoor Championships while jumping 44-0 ¾ for the No. 7-ranked mark indoors in school history. She then ended the indoor season as the NCAA Indoor bronze medalist with a third-place finish at the national meet.

Outdoors, Pitts again took her place among the nation's elite as an NCAA Championship qualifier in both the high jump and triple jump. She jumped a wind-legal personal best of 44-1 ¾ to earn All-America honors in the event outdoors for the first time in her career with a fourth-place finish nationally after equaling her indoor effort as the SEC Outdoor bronze medalist in the event. Pitts later jumped a career-best wind-aided 44-6 ¾ to be crowned the USA Outdoor Bronze Medalist at the 2014 USA Outdoor Championships with her final meet in an LSU uniform.

The 2012 season was highlighted by Trinidad & Tobago international Kyrone Blaise wrapping up his collegiate career as one of the top scoring Tigers at the NCAA Championships by earning a trio of All-America honors in his final season in Baton Rouge.

After setting a wind-legal PR of 54-1 ¾ in an All-SEC runner-up finish in the triple jump at the 2012 SEC Outdoor Championships, Blaise scored the NCAA Outdoor bronze medal with a third-place finish at the national meet in his final competition in an LSU uniform. Blaise totaled a team-leading nine points at the NCAA Outdoor Championships that season as he also reached All-America status in the long jump with a sixth-place finish nationally.

Blaise proved himself as one of the NCAA's leading dual jumpers in his final season at LSU, earning his first career All-America honor in the long jump with a sixth-place finish indoors before setting a lifetime PR of 25-11 ½ in a third-place finish at the SEC Outdoor meet.

The 2012 season also witnessed the final season in the career of the most decorated pole vaulter in the storied history of the LSU women's program as Rachel Laurent hung up her spikes as a four-time All-American and five-time All-SEC performer.

The 2011 season saw the end of two storied careers as Brittani Carter and Zedric Thomas also finished their eligibility among the all-time greats to wear the purple and gold.

Carter is the most decorated high jumper in the history of the Lady Tiger program after winning two SEC titles and five All-America honors in four seasons at LSU. As a senior in 2011, Carter set a lifetime PR indoors at 6-1 ¾ and defended her SEC Indoor crown before earning All-America honors in national competition with a bronze-medal-winning third-place finish at the NCAA Indoor Championships and seventh-place finish at the NCAA Outdoor Championships.

Like Carter, Thomas wrapped up his collegiate career in 2011 as a five-time All-America selection in four seasons with the Tigers while shattering personal bests in both the long jump and triple jump. Thomas had top wind-legal marks of 26-6 ¾ in the long jump and 54-5 ½ in the triple jump in his final collegiate season with Lane's coaching.

Lane joined the LSU coaching staff after spending one season at the University of Miami, where he was voted the top women's jumps and combined events assistant in the East Region by the U.S. Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association in 2007.

The Hurricanes enjoyed great success under Lane's tutelage as he coached his athletes to a total of three All-America honors, eight All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors, four ACC titles and one current school record. In addition, Hurricane standouts Brenda Falaude and Amy Seward swept postseason awards in 2007 while being named the ACC Indoor Field Performer of the Year and ACC Outdoor Field Performer of the Year, respectively.

Prior to joining the staff at Miami, Lane served as an assistant coach at Ball State University of the Mid-American Conference. In 2006, he helped guide BSU to a runner-up finish at the MAC Indoor Championships and a third-place showing at the MAC Outdoor Championships before being named interim head coach following the season.

Lane is not without head coaching experience as he was the head track and field coach at Georgia Southern University for five years where he oversaw the program from its inception in 1999. He was named the SoCon Outdoor Coach of the Year in 2003 and 2004 after leading Georgia Southern to back-to-back runner-up finishes at the SoCon Outdoor Championships.

Off the track, Lane has been involved as an instructor for USA Track & Field and currently with USTFCCA in coaching education programs. He also lectures nationally on training and technique.

A native of Iowa City, Iowa, the 43-year-old Lane graduated from Luther College (Iowa) in May 1995 with a bachelor's degree in political science. An avid Green Bay Packers fan, Lane has also received two master's degrees from Georgia Southern University, including one in sport management in May 1997 and a second in exercise science in December 2005.

Lane and his wife of 18 years, Turena Johnson Lane, are the proud parents of four children – their daughter, Taylor Grace Lane, born on May 6, 2011; and their sons, Miles William Lane, born on Aug. 30, 2012; Mason James Lane, born on Jan. 27, 2014; and Jace James Lane, born on Dec. 16, 2015.

Derek Yush

Assistant Coach • Ninth Season • Connecticut, 1997

The LSU throws group has flourished in eight seasons under the direction of assistant coach Derek Yush, and the Tigers and Lady Tigers are sure to shine among the nation's elite once again in 2016 while featuring some of the top talent in the NCAA ranks.

While the 2015 season may have closed the book on two record-setting careers by All-Americans Tori Bliss and Rodney Brown, it also wrote the first chapter in an All-American career for Rebekah Wales as she emerged as one of the NCAA's leading javelin throwers during her breakout sophomore season. Wales was crowned the SEC Champion and earned an All-American fourth-place finish nationally at the NCAA Championships last June.

After opening her sophomore season with a personal best of 176 feet, 5 inches to secure a bronze medal at the Texas Relays, Wales raised her PR to 177-1 in winning the SEC title and 179-11 at the NCAA East Preliminary Rounds to advance to the NCAA semifinal. On the runway at Oregon's Hayward Field, Wales earned All-America honors for the first time with her top mark of 178-0 en route to a fourth-place finish in the national final.

Wales went out in 2015 as the No. 2-ranked javelin thrower in school history as she preps for her junior season in 2016 with higher honors squarely in her sights.

Bliss ended her historic career last spring as an SEC Champion and All-American herself, claiming the SEC Indoor title and scoring for the Lady Tigers in the shot put at the NCAA Championships during both the indoor and outdoor seasons.

Bliss' final indoor season was highlighted by an SEC Indoor Championship meet record of 60-1 to win her first career conference crown and an indoor personal best of 60-7 ¾ to finish as the NCAA Indoor Silver Medalist in the women's shot put. Her indoor PR of 60-7 ¾ ranked Bliss as the No. 8-ranked shot putter indoors in collegiate history after the NCAA meet.

After being crowned the NCAA Outdoor Silver Medalist with her first career All-America honor as a sophomore in 2014, Bliss earned All-America honors for the third time in her tenure by winning the bronze medal in her final NCAA Championships for LSU. 2015 also saw Bliss raise her outdoor school record to a lifetime best of 60-8 to become the No. 9-ranked outdoor shot putter in NCAA history.

Brown continued to set records himself in his final season at LSU in 2015 when he raised his own school record and broke his Penn Relays meet record with a career-best throw of 213-5 at the 121st running of the Carnival in defending his discus title last spring. He was then crowned the SEC's discus champion for the second time after first winning the title as a sophomore in 2013 en route to a return to the NCAA finals at Hayward Field.

Brown then made his mark on the international stage last summer when he traveled to the Bird's Nest National Stadium in Beijing where he made his debut at the IAAF World Championships in Athletics for the United States. That experience has Brown eyeing his first ever Olympic Games with his sights set on Rio de Janeiro in the summer of 2016.

Yush also coached the likes of former walk-on Denise Hinton into one of the most decorated throwers in the history of the Lady Tiger program as she ended her career in 2014 as an All-American in both the weight throw indoors and hammer throw outdoors with fifth-place finishes in both events at the NCAA Championships.

A two-time SEC Indoor Champion in the weight throw, Hinton established LSU's school record with a career-best throw of 73-11 in defending her conference crown as a senior in 2014. She followed in her final outdoor season with a school record in the hammer throw as she threw a personal best of 218-0 in the event.

Another in a long line of SEC Champions coached by Yush during his tenure at LSU was Samia Stokes, who became the first Lady Tiger in 16 years to win the SEC Outdoor title in the women's discus in 2010 with a winning throw of 168-5 at the conference meet. Stokes raised her PR to 181-0 to rank No. 2 in school history and went out as the SEC Bronze Medalist in 2012.

Michael Lauro wrapped up an All-American career with the Tigers in 2012 after claiming five All-America honors in his four seasons at LSU. Lauro saved his best for last at the NCAA Championships while earning career-best finishes of eighth place in the weight throw indoors and fourth place in the hammer throw outdoors at the national meets as a senior in 2012.

The LSU throws group enjoyed its most successful season at the SEC Championship with Yush's guidance in 2012 as his athletes scored a total of 82 points in conference action.

Yush was also honored following the 2012 season as he had the privilege of serving as the men's throws coach for Team USA at the North American, Central American & Caribbean Under-23 Championships held in Guanajuato, Mexico.

The 2011 campaign witnessed the end of an era as Tiger great Walter Henning wrapped up an outstanding collegiate career as arguably the premier thrower in program history.

Henning put an exclamation point onto the end of an undefeated 2011 indoor season with a national championship in the 35-pound weight throw while defending his title at the NCAA Division I Indoor Track & Field Championships. Henning posted a series-best mark of 72-8 ¾ to take the national title by nearly three feet.

The Kings Park, New York, native then took home a bronze medal in the hammer throw during his last event as an LSU Tiger at the 2011 NCAA Outdoor Championships.

In arguably the most prolific career by a thrower in the program's history, Henning won a total of three NCAA championships in his three seasons in Baton Rouge. That dominance was also felt by his rivals in the Southeastern Conference with his sweep of SEC championships in the weight throw indoors and hammer throw outdoors in consecutive seasons from 2009-11.

Henning, a seven-time All-American and two-time Bowerman Award candidate during his collegiate career, became the first LSU Tiger in program history to capture NCAA titles in the weight throw indoors and hammer throw outdoors with his championship sweep in 2010.

After taking the weight throw crown at the 2010 NCAA Indoor Championships, Henning completed the sweep with a dramatic come-from-behind victory in the hammer throw at the NCAA Outdoor Championships to wrap up his junior season. While Henning trailed Virginia Tech's Alexander Ziegler with a top mark of 235-6 through five rounds, he took the crown on his sixth and final throw of the competition after posting a mark of 238-10 on his last attempt to wrap up the title more than one foot ahead of Ziegler's 237-7 effort.

Henning shattered his own school records during his junior season in posting his personal records of 78-1 in the weight throw and 239-5 in the hammer throw during the campaign. With an effort of 78-1 in winning the weight throw at the 2010 SEC Indoor Championships, he established a new meet record while shattering the previous mark of 76-5 by Auburn's Cory Martin in 2007.

Not only did Henning add the title of national champion to his resume under Yush's guidance, but he was also crowned World Junior Champion in the summer of 2008 with his gold-medal-winning performance in the 6-kg. hammer throw at the IAAF World Junior Championship in Bydgoszcz, Poland, after transferring to LSU from the University of North Carolina. His throw of 252-4 at the IAAF World Junior Championships was an American junior record in the event.

While Yush has now guided his athletes to 19 All-America honors in his stint as LSU's throws coach, former Tiger javelin thrower Preston Chatham was the first to reach that status with his first career All-America honor during the 2008 outdoor season. Chatham earned fourth place in the javelin at the NCAA Outdoor Championships while posting a PR of 234-7.

Since Yush joined the LSU coaching staff in 2008, the Lady Tigers have now taken home six SEC championships and one NCAA championship as they continue to add to trophy case as the premier women's program in collegiate track and field. In fact, the Tigers and Lady Tigers have now combined for 20 top-five finishes at the NCAA Championships between the indoor and outdoor seasons since Yush's arrival.

Yush came to LSU in 2007 after spending eight seasons at the University of Rhode Island, where he coached the men's throws, jumps and multi-events while also acting as an assistant with the cross country team. Rhode Island enjoyed tremendous success under Yush's guidance as he helped lead the squad to 11 Atlantic-10 Conference titles from 2001-07, including five indoor and six outdoor crowns during his tenure.

In addition to his experience at Rhode Island, Yush brings head coaching experience to the position as he served as the head men's and women's coach at Eastern Connecticut State University from 1998-99. He actually got his start in the coaching profession at ECSU as he was named the assistant sprints, jumps and throws coach in 1997.

The Enfield, Connecticut, native also served two seasons as an administrative assistant at the University of Connecticut where he served as a team captain and helped lead the Huskies to Big East and New England as a senior. He was a consistent scorer at the Big East Championships and was an Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America performer.

Yush has earned a USA Track and Field Level II Coaching Certificate as he is fully certified to coach sprints, hurdles, relays, jumps, throws and multi-events. He is also a certified strength and conditioning specialist after joining the National Strength and Conditioning Association in 1997. He earned a bachelor's degree in dietetics from Connecticut in May 1997.

Bennie Brazell

Assistant Coach • Fifth Season • LSU, 2012

The LSU Track & Field program was proud to welcome back one of its all-time greats as an assistant coach as former Tiger two-sport national champion Bennie Brazell joined the coaching staff as LSU's top men's sprints and hurdles assistant prior to the start of the 2012 season.

Brazell now enters his fifth season coaching at his alma mater as his addition to the staff has paid immediate dividends for the Tigers with their performance at the SEC and NCAA Championships.

Brazell was himself part of five NCAA Champion relay teams during his collegiate career with the Tigers from 2002-05, and he has helped add to that proud tradition by coaching the Tigers to NCAA titles in the 4x400-meter relay during the 2014 indoor season and 2015 outdoor season since his return.

After nearly setting the indoor school record with a seasonal-best run of 3 minutes, 4.04 seconds in an All-SEC third-place finish at the 2014 SEC Indoor Championships, the Tigers were crowned national champions that season with their winning 3:04.54 in the national final to take the title ahead of Florida and Texas A&M at the NCAA Championships.

NCAA Indoor Champions Quincy Downing, Cyril Grayson and Vernon Norwood all returned for a title-winning performance during the 2015 outdoor season as they teamed with Fitzroy Dinkley to claim last year's NCAA Outdoor crown in 3:01.96 to again strike gold ahead of the Gators.

Norwood was crowned the NCAA Indoor and NCAA Outdoor Champion in the 400-meter dash to highlight a historic senior season in 2015. In his final season, Norwood became just the 14th sprinter in collegiate history to sweep NCAA Indoor and NCAA Outdoor titles in the 400 meters (or 440 yards) in the same season while also anchoring the Tigers to the outdoor crown in the mile relay.

Norwood was certainly one of the most prolific sprinters in school history as he won four NCAA titles, eight All-America honors and nine All-SEC awards in just two seasons at LSU.

While emerging as one of the world's top 400-meter sprinters after running a lifetime best of 44.44 at the LSU Alumni Gold last spring, Norwood followed the collegiate season by representing the United States at the IAAF World Championships in Beijing where he was crowned a World Champion as part of Team USA's 4x400-meter relay team in his championship debut.

Brazell was one of the world's leading 400-meter hurdlers throughout his own athletic career as an LSU Tiger, and he helped coach Downing to a pair of All-America honors in the event during his career in Baton Rouge. After finishing his junior season in 2014 as the NCAA Outdoor Bronze Medalist, Downing went out as an All-American in the 400 hurdles once again by finishing fourth nationally to cap his senior season in which he set a personal best of 49.63 in the event.

LSU's senior-laden sprint squad a season ago also featured Aaron Ernest, who wrapped up his collegiate career in 2015 with three more All-America honors while reclaiming the SEC Indoor title in the 200-meter dash he first won as a sophomore in 2013. One of the most decorated LSU sprinters in recent memory, Ernest went out as an 11-time All-American and three-time SEC Champion from 2012-15.

While Ernest placed fifth nationally in his return appearance to the NCAA Outdoor final in the 200 meters, Tiger sophomore Tremayne Acy emerged as one of the NCAA's stars of the future by placing fourth in the event with a career-best wind-aided run of 20.04 to claim his first career All-America honor in the event. Acy, the 2015 SEC Outdoor Bronze Medalist, also raced to a wind-legal best of 20.17 during the national semifinals en route to his first career NCAA finals appearance.

Joshua Thompson also earned All-America honors for the first time in his collegiate career last spring when he crossed the finish line in fourth place in the national final of the 110-meter hurdles while running a career-best wind-aided time of 13.34 in his final race as an LSU Tiger.

Thompson, Norwood, Acy and Ernest all teamed together to turn in another All-American performance for the Tigers in the 4x100-meter relay to close out the 2015 season as they followed their All-SEC second-place finish at the SEC Championships with a bronze-medal-winning third-place finish at the NCAA Outdoor Championships while clocking a seasonal best of 38.62 in the final.

Their performance was instrumental in the Tigers taking home a fourth-place team trophy at the NCAA Division I Outdoor Track & Field Championships for the second-straight season as the team scored 45 points in two days of competition at Oregon's Hayward Field to wrap up the 2015 season.

In Brazell's first season in 2012, the Tigers followed a fifth-place finish at the NCAA Indoor Championships with an impressive second-place finish at the NCAA Outdoor Championships as they were just two points shy of winning a national championship in their inaugural campaign. They followed in 2013 with another top-10 team finish nationally by taking seventh place at the NCAA Outdoor meet.

Their 2012 season was highlighted by claiming their eighth national championship all-time in the 4x100-meter relay. While running with a team of Barrett Nugent, Aaron Ernest, Keyth Talley and Shermund Allsop, the Tigers matched the seventh-fastest relay performance in collegiate history with a winning run of 38.38 at the NCAA Outdoor Championships.

Nugent wrapped up his collegiate career in 2012 as the most decorated hurdler in the history of the LSU men's program with a pair of NCAA titles and four SEC titles to go along with 10 All-America honors in his four seasons in Baton Rouge. After breaking his own indoor school record in the 60 hurdles with a run of 7.55 to claim the NCAA Indoor bronze medal, Nugent captured his third-straight SEC crown in the 110 hurdles and ended his career with All-America honors during the outdoor season.

Nugent owns the distinction of being the only LSU Tiger to win three-straight SEC Outdoor titles in the 110-meter hurdles in the history of the SEC Outdoor Championships.

The 2012 season also saw former Tigers Ade Alleyne-Forte (Trinidad & Tobago) and Riker Hylton (Jamaica) make their Olympics debut in London while running the mile relay for their countries. Alleyne-Forte certainly made the most of his first Olympic Games as he led Trinidad & Tobago to a bronze medal in the relay as a third leg on the team that set a national record of 2:59.40 in the Olympic final.

A member of the program from 2002-05, Brazell helped the Tigers claim five NCAA relay titles while earning 14 All-America honors as one of the NCAA's leading 400-meter hurdlers during his four seasons in Baton Rouge. By earning 14 All-America accolades for his career, Brazell is the No. 2-ranked Tiger all-time behind only the 19 All-America honors won by Kelly Willie from 2003-06.

Brazell actually owns the unique distinction of being the university's first student-athlete to win national championships with two different sports teams during his LSU career.

In four seasons as a member of national championship football and track programs at LSU, Brazell became one of the school's most recognizable two-sport stars during his career that featured national titles in track and field outdoors in 2002 and indoors in 2004 and on the football field in 2003.

Brazell even represented the United States on an international stage during his junior season at LSU as he advanced to the Olympic final in the 400-meter hurdles at the 2004 Olympic Games in Athens, Greece. In his Olympics debut, he finished in eighth place in the final at the centennial games.

A product of Westbury High School in Houston, Brazell made an immediate impact on the LSU Track & Field program as the nation's No. 1-ranked high school prospect in the 400-meter hurdles.

During his freshman season, Brazell scored eight points as the NCAA Outdoor runner-up in the 400-meter hurdles while breaking the school record in the event with a time of 48.80. He also anchored LSU to a national title in the 4x100-meter relay that ran the fourth-fastest time in NCAA history at 38.32, while also running the third leg on the Tigers' bronze-medal winning 4x400-meter relay team.

Brazell's 14 points helped lead LSU to a national championship in its own backyard with the 2002 NCAA Division I Outdoor Track & Field Championships being held at the Bernie Moore Track Stadium.

Brazell helped guide LSU to a second NCAA team title at the onset of his junior season in 2004 with their victory at the NCAA Indoor Championships. With the Lady Tigers also winning the team championship, LSU made history as the first program to sweep both the men's and women's team titles at the NCAA Division I Indoor Track & Field Championships.

Brazell certainly went out with a bang as a senior in 2005 at the NCAA Championships as he enjoyed performances in both the 400 hurdles and 4x400 relay that eclipsed previous collegiate records.

In the most exciting NCAA final in the 400-meter hurdles in NCAA Championships history, Brazell and Florida's Kerron Clement each shattered the collegiate record as Clement struck gold in 47.56 and Brazell took home the silver in 47.67, a time that remains LSU's school record in the event.

While Brazell came up just short of owning the collegiate record in the 400-meter hurdles with his second place to Clement in the national final, he would not be denied in the final of the 4x400-meter relay. That's where he ran a 44.8-second split on the third leg to set the collegiate record at 2:59.59 with Reggie Dardar (46.4), Kelly Willie (44.4) and Xavier Carter (44.0) in winning the NCAA crown.

The Houston native also enjoyed a successful career on the football field while appearing in 43 contests in his four seasons as a wide receiver and special teams standout. Brazell appeared in 11 games for the Tigers during their national championship season in 2003, including the 2004 Sugar Bowl.

Brazell concluded his football career at LSU with 17 catches for 341 yards and three touchdowns before being picked in the seventh round of the 2006 NFL Draft as the 231st overall pick by the Cincinnati Bengals.

Khadevis Robinson

Assistant Coach • Third Season • TCU, 1998

The LSU Track & Field program welcomed one of the nation's rising stars in the coaching ranks on Aug. 13, 2013, when head coach Dennis Shaver announced that two-time Olympian Khadevis Robinson was appointed an assistant coach to lead the men's and women's middle distance and distance groups and cross country teams.

Robinson joined Shaver's staff following an impressive 2013 season at Ohio State University where he also served as head cross country coach and assistant track and field coach.

Robinson boasts a distinguished pedigree as one of the all-time great middle distance runners in the history of USA Track & Field as a two-time Olympian and eight-time U.S. Champion in the 800-meter run before joining the coaching ranks with stints as a head cross country coach and assistant track and field coach at UNLV in 2012 and Ohio State in 2013.

"LSU has always been one of the premier programs in the nation, both on the men's and women's sides. Having the opportunity to work with Coach Shaver and his staff is exciting for me because I know it will help me develop into a better coach and learn what it takes to be a part of a championship program," Robinson said. "We all strive to reach our full potential, no matter your profession. Being a part of the LSU tradition has given me the opportunity to work harder and pursue my full potential while working with coaches and athletes who've been at this level for a very long time.

"It's hard for a program to do what LSU has done on both the men's and women's sides for so long, so to help build on that tradition is a great opportunity for me as a coach."

Shaver believes Robinson has the required talent and experience to lead one of the nation's premier middle distance groups in Baton Rouge.

"Khadevis Robinson is the perfect fit for our program here at LSU. We're very excited that he is leading an event area that's really been instrumental in our pursuit of SEC and NCAA championships over the years," Shaver said. "Khadevis is a rising star in our [coaching] ranks. It's special any time you can have someone with his experience and pedigree into your program.

"He's a world-class athlete in his own right, which gives him immediate credibility to the athletes he recruits and trains here in Baton Rouge."

The Tigers and Lady Tigers have shown tremendous progress in just two seasons under Robinson's leadership, but perhaps none moreso than LSU's emerging All-American candidate Morgan Schuetz as she returns as one of the NCAA's leading 800-meter runners from the 2015 season.

Schuetz enjoyed a breakout sophomore season a year ago as an NCAA Championship semifinalist during both the indoor and outdoor seasons while earning All-SEC honors for the first time in her collegiate career. She slashed nearly four seconds off of her lifetime personal best over the course of the 2015 season while finishing with top times of 2 minutes, 45.3 seconds to rank sixth indoors and 2:03.12 to rank eighth outdoors on LSU's all-time performance list.

Schuetz actually clocked her indoor PR of 2:04.53 in the national semifinals at the NCAA Division I Indoor Track & Field Championships a year ago to highlight a campaign in which she picked up her first All-SEC honor as the anchor leg of LSU's silver-medal-winning distance medley relay team during the SEC Indoor Championships. She anchored the squad that also featured Andria Aguilar, Kiersten Duncan and Danielle Avery as the SEC Indoor Silver Medalists for 2015.

But it was her sophomore season outdoors when Schuetz truly staked her claim among the elite 800-meter runners in collegiate track and field. After racing to a lifetime best of 2:03.12 in her regular-season finale at the LSU Invitational, Schuetz bagged the bronze medal with her All-SEC third-place finish at the SEC Outdoor Championships before making a run to the NCAA semifinals.

Schuetz has prepped for the 2016 track and field season with a decorated cross country season in which she earned all-region honors for the first time in her career with a 12th-place individual finish at the NCAA South Central Regional during the 2015 fall semester.

Schuetz wasn't LSU's only athlete to receive recognition with an outstanding season on the cross country course when Class of 2015 recruit Dajour Braxton became the first LSU cross country runner on either team to earn a major postseason award from the Southeastern Conference when he was honored as the SEC Men's Freshman Runner of the Year following his rookie season.

The 2015 track and field season also saw Julian Parker become the fifth LSU Tiger in history to be crowned the SEC Outdoor Champion in the 800 meters with his improbably victory in the SEC final.

After clocking a best of 1:47.33 during the regular season, Parker dropped his personal best by more than one full second as he crossed the finish line in 1:46.17 to strike gold as the SEC's 800-meter champion in his senior season. That performance made Parker the third-fastest half-miler in the school's history and earned him a place in the NCAA Championships for the first time in his career.

Sophomore Blair Henderson also cracked LSU's all-time Top 10 performance list a year ago when he posted a lifetime best of 1:47.03 to rank seventh in school history in the event. The Lake Charles native also made a return trip to the NCAA Championships by advancing to the quarterfinal round at the NCAA East Preliminary Rounds in Jacksonville, Florida.

Schuetz and Henderson both made their NCAA Championship debuts during the outdoor season in 2014 in Robinson's first season coaching the group. Former Lady Tiger runner Andria Aguilar also lined up at the NCAA East Preliminary Rounds in the 1,500 meters that season.

In his one season at Ohio State, Robinson coached sophomore Katie Borchers to All-America honors in the 800 meters by the U.S. Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association while setting school records with PRs of 2:06.95 indoors and 2:05.56 outdoors to earn a spot in the national semifinals at the 2013 NCAA Division I Outdoor Track & Field Championships.

He also coached a young Buckeye squad to great success during the 2012 cross country season as Ohio State claimed a pair of sixth-place team finishes at the Big Ten Championships and the NCAA Great Lakes Regional. That included junior Meredith Wagner and sophomore Michelle Thomas earning all-region honors and Wagner adding a Second-Team All-Big Ten selection for her performance.

The Ohio State women's cross country team earned a 2012 NCAA Division I All-Academic Team honor by the U.S. Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association with a cumulative team grade-point average of 3.31 through the 2012 fall semester.

Prior to joining the Buckeye staff, Robinson guided the UNLV Runnin' Rebels to a successful 2012 campaign in which standout Kelsey Williams swept Mountain West Conference championships in the women's 800 meters during the indoor and outdoor seasons. Brett Zorich, the 2012 Mountain West Indoor bronze medalist, also qualified for the 800-meter semifinals at the NCAA Outdoor Championships while earning a 13th-place finish nationally with a personal record of 2:04.54 in the event.

UNLV's relay teams were also impressive under Robinson's direction as the Rebels earned All-Mountain West honors with a silver-medal-winning second-place finish in the women's distance medley relay (11:52.41) at the 2012 MWC Indoor Championships and won the 4x800-meter relay (8:39.22) at the 85th Clyde Littlefield Texas Relays during the 2012 outdoor season.

A native of Fort Worth, Texas, and 1998 graduate of TCU, Robinson was crowned the NCAA Outdoor Champion in the men's 800 meters during his senior season with the Horned Frogs in 1998.

He would go on to a distinguished professional career as one of the world's premier 800-meter runners in which he represented the United States at the Olympic Games in Athens in 2004 and London in 2012. Robinson also earned his spot on Team USA at the IAAF World Championships a total of seven times while setting a lifetime personal best of 1:43.68 in his specialty event.

Robinson is one of the most accomplished middle distance runners in USA Track & Field history while winning four U.S. Indoor titles in 1999, 2005, 2006 and 2007 and four U.S. Outdoor titles in 1999, 2006, 2008 and 2009. He is also a six-time silver medalist in the 800 meters at the USA Outdoor Championships, including a pair of runner-up finishes at the U.S. Olympic Track & Field Trials in 2004 and 2012.

He has also helped foster the careers of some of USA Track & Field's rising stars while coaching the likes of 2012 U.S. Olympian Duane Solomon early in his professional career.

Robinson graduated from TCU in 1998 with an undergraduate degree in social work before earning his master's degree in public administration from Cal State Los Angeles in 2004.

Robinson has spent the past decade training and competing as one of the world's top runners while coaching athletes from all age groups. He's also served as a public speaker and as an educator in the Santa Monica Unified School District. He also co-founded a 501c3 called The Youth Track & Running Club of which he remains an active board member.

LSU at the Texas Relays

Kimberlyn Duncan was named Most Outstanding Performer in 2012

For many collegiate programs across the country, the Clyde Littlefield Texas Relays marks the true beginning of the outdoor season as many of the nation's top teams travel to Mike A. Myers Stadium in Austin for one of the most prestigious meets during the regular season. LSU is world famous for the performance of its men's and women's relay teams, and its success at the Texas Relays rivals that of any program in the NCAA. The Tigers and Lady Tigers have combined for 74 relay titles and 75 individual titles in the University division at the Texas Relays, and the squads will be looking to add to their impressive resume in 2016.

LSU at the Penn Relays

2011 Penn Relays 4x100 Relay Champions

Each year, track athletes from around the world converge on historic Franklin Field in Philadelphia for the annual Penn Relay Carnival to take part in one of the true spectacles in the sport of track and field.

The LSU Track & Field program has been one of the featured attractions each season as the Tigers and Lady Tigers put their talent on display for the more than 100,000 fans that fill the stands to make the Penn Relays one of the unique events in all of sports. The teams have won a combined 70 Championship of America relay titles, while having 70 athletes crowned University champions throughout the storied history of the meet.

The Lady Tigers are the winningest women's program in meet history as their 46 total relay titles all-time is more than any other women's program in collegiate track and field. The Tigers have won 24 relay titles of their own.

LSU made history in 2008 by winning a combined six relay titles between the men's and women's teams, which is a meet record for a combined program.

ABBREVIATIONS AND NOTES

c = time converted from yard equivalent
w = wind-aided decathlon or heptathlon (over 4.0 mps)
* = decathlon or heptathlon rescored on 1985 IAAF Tables

In running events, hand times are carried in 10ths, while automatic times are carried in 100ths. Hand times are placed with auto times by adding either 0.24 seconds (for events less than 400m), or 0.14 seconds (400m and up) to the hand time. Starting in 1980, only automatic times were accepted for events less than 400 meters. With the exception of the decathlon. Wind-aided performances are not eligible for these lists.
